Deercreek Park Program Teaches Love Of Nature

By ANDREA PORTER

The love of nature could be the theme of a new program being offered at Deercreek State Park. At least that's how Mark Hersman, the state park naturalist, regards his job.

He said the area has a lot to offer nature enthusiasts and he is trying to make these known to the public.

Hersman has set up programs to interest all age groups. They are geared toward the park's campers as well as permanent residents around the park.

During the week, he teaches children about wildlife. The course lasts two hours on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week. At the end of the three days, all the participants are presented a patch signifying their completion of the course.

Hersman divided up the course, offering it for Junior Naturalists between the ages of seven and ten, and Naturalists Aids for boys and girls between 11 and 15 years old.

He also offers canoe floats around the lake, trail explorations, wildlife watches and twilight walks, which tour the backlands of the park.

Hersman said there is plenty for everyone to do during their stay at the park. Other activities he set up are tours of the park on foot or by automobile and informal gatherings such as campfires and movie flicks.

"Everybody should take advantage of these activities," Hersman said, "because they are not only a learning experience, but they are fun."

Hersman has a collection of animals he uses as visual aids when teaching the children. He has two harmless snakes, a couple of turtles and some butterflies that help him explain the material to the classes.

Hersman attended Kent State University for three years, then transferred to Ohio State, where he has one more quarter before he graduates. He is a wildlife management major, with birds as a specialization area.

Before coming to Deercreek, Hersman worked at Pymatuning State Park in northeastern Ohio.

South Viet Religious Leaders Resisting New Red Regime

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some South Vietnamese religious groups are resisting the new Communist leaders of their country, U.S. intelligence sources report.

Tri Quang, a Buddhist priest and critic of the ousted anti-Communist regime, was said to have made a speech recently in Saigon denouncing executions by the Communists. There was no word on whether the Communists took any reprisal action against Tri Quang as a result.

Two religious sects, the Hoa Hao and Cao Dai, were reported to be putting up militant opposition to the Communists.

According to information reaching U.S. intelligence, armed members of the Hoa Hao have been harassing Communist troops in the rice-growing Delta region south of Saigon.

Some Cao Dai leaders were said to have told their adherents in Tay Ninh Province, northwest of Saigon, not to cooperate with the Communists.

And some Cao Dai members were reported to be melting into the countryside possibly to become guerrillas.

U.S. intelligence men refused to discuss their sources of information, but at least some of it is believed to have come from Vietnamese who have slipped out of South Vietnam in recent weeks.

Meanwhile, Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency said Wednesday that the Communist government in South Vietnam has reaffirmed its determination to uphold religious freedom in the country.

VNA, in a broadcast monitored in Hong Kong, said this was stated by the National Front for Liberation committee of the Saigon-Gia Dinh area in a meeting with 200 Christian representatives in Saigon.

Persistent reports in Washington also tell of hit-and-run attacks against Communist troops by South Vietnamese paratroopers and infantrymen in two coastal areas, Phuoc Tuy province and near the old resort city of Vung Tau.

Intelligence analysts doubt that the resistance will amount to a serious, long-term threat to the Communists, who completed their conquest of South Vietnam more than two months ago. Successful sustained guerrilla warfare requires food and other support from the peasants, and U.S. officials doubt the warweary population in South Vietnam will provide that kind of support.

Suit Claims Blue Shield Conspires On Charges

State Seeks To Break Up Combination

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Blue Shield has violated both federal and Ohio antitrust laws by conspiring with the Ohio State Medical Association to fix physician fees in 83 of Ohio's 88 counties, Atty. Gen. William J. Brown charged Wednesday.

In a lawsuit filed in U. S. District Court, Brown named the Ohio State Medical Association and its wholly owned Blue Shield subsidiary, Ohio Medical Indemnity Inc., as defendants.

Brown said that OSMA's 100 per cent ownership and control of OMI allows the medical association to raise and stabilize fees for physician services.

Brown asked that both groups be stopped from any anticompetitive activity and that the OSMA be required to divest itself from control of the OMI "to allow a competitive market."

Charles W. Edgar, director of public relations for the 10,500-member medical association, said, "We couldn't comment until our officers and legal counsel have seen the suit and analyzed these charges."

"The reason for this lawsuit is very simple," Brown said in a statement. "I believe it is against the law for doctors to own the dominant company that says how much Blue Shield will pay for their services."

"Health care is a $5 billion industry with physician fees rising at the rate of 13.5 per cent each year. This lawsuit is aimed at curbing the skyrocketing costs of physician services and restrict competition in the sale of health insurance in Ohio."

The counties not involved in the suit are Cuyahoga (Cleveland), Lake, Lorain, Ashtabula and Geauga. Blue Shield plans there are handled by a separate firm, Brown said.

U.S. Colonel Still Alive; Deadline Past

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The deadline set by kidnappers of an American colonel has passed with no indication that the ransom demand was met or that the terrorists carried out their threat to kill him.

The kidnappers, believed to be ultra-left Lebanese Moslems or Palestinian guerrillas, had said they would kill Col. Ernest R. Morgan of Petersburg, Va., unless the U.S. Embassy provided food, clothing and building material to residents of a Moslem slum district of Beirut by 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Both U.S. and Lebanese officials indicated the demand would not be met. Meanwhile, Lebanese officials said the police and army search for Morgan and the kidnappers was continuing.

The Palestine Liberation Organization said Wednesday night it also had searched for Morgan but had failed to find him. The 43-year-old colonel was taken from a taxi on June 29 at the height of street fighting between Palestinian guerrillas, leftist Lebanese Moslems and militiamen of the conservative Christian Phalange party.

The ransom demand was signed by the Revolutionary Socialist Action Group and was the first word of that group's existence. But the PLO said it was a "fictitious organization" and the name must have been fabricated in an attempt to hide the identities of the kidnappers.

The PLO said the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command, a radical guerrilla organization, admitted to it that it had kidnaped several persons including Morgan but claimed it handed the American over to "some Lebanese group."

The Popular Front denied any involvement in the kidnapping. A spokesman accused the PLO of "employing the colonel affair to discredit the rejection front," the coalition of radical guerrilla groups that reject Egypt's efforts to achieve a peace settlement with Israel.

Weather

Partly cloudy today and tonight with a chance of thundershowers, high, upper 70s; low, upper 50s. Mostly sunny Friday, high, upper 70s. Probability of precipitation, 50 per cent today, 30 per cent tonight and 20 per cent tomorrow. Temperatures Wednesday were: high, 85; low, 63.

SWIM CLASS—Dave Shank, water safety instructor, teaches these children the basic swimming strokes during lessons for beginners at Deercreek Park Beach. Shank is the water safety vice chairman of the American Red Cross. These lessons began Monday at the park and will continue for another week. The Red Cross is also sponsoring swimming lessons at Gold Cliff and Ted Lewis Parks.

Assembly Makes Haste Slowly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Major issues confronting adjournment-minded state lawmakers apparently are beginning to show signs of moving, but with some reluctance.

The House Finance Committee meet today to try to break a prolonged impasse on the state's new "equal yield" school foundation bill. Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, said an informal agreement to delete an embattled tax rollback provision could get that measure under way. It has been in limbo for about three weeks.

Across the Statehouse, a Senate subcommittee was set to consider about 30 additional amendments to a complicated bill providing last resort medical malpractice insurance coverage for Ohio's financially-perplexed doctors and hospitals.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-16 Columbus, already has approved about 20 amendments to the House version of the high priority bill. One limits jury awards to $500,000. O'Shaughnessy said he hopes the subcommittee can finish its work on the measure by Friday.

Otherwise, majority Democrats, who hope to end working sessions for the year about Aug. 1, are concerned about the fate of a public employee collective bargaining bill embroiled in more controversy now than when it passed the Senate May 22.

Like the state budget bill, the omnibus bargaining measure so far has failed to garner a Republican vote—it was approved 21-12 along party lines in the Senate—and leaders have said privately they aren't anxious to rush it to GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes' almost certain veto.

Among its more controversial features are those that provide for agency shops—permitting the collection of union dues from nonunion employees—binding arbitration to handle certain types of disputes, and repeal of the nearly 30-year-old Ferguson Act banning strikes by public employees.

Democrats still haven't called a caucus to lay plans for possible attempts to override some of Rhodes' 72 line item vetoes in the $10.6 billion appropriations bill. House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said he expects to call such a caucus "in the near future."

Meanwhile, both chambers are calling up numerous routine measures for floor action. Senators vote today on bills requiring removal of abandoned service stations and permitting liquor in publicly-owned convention centers to attract convention business.

The House postponed from Wednesday until today a vote on a constitutional amendment that would clarify the legality of bingo games sponsored by charitable and nonprofit organizations.

Big Garbage Caper Repeated

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — In the belief that turnabout is fair play, a local newspaper has done unto the National Enquirer what it did unto Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger: sift through the garbage.

The Enquirer, a weekly newspaper based in nearby Lantana, sent reporter Jay Gourley to haul away trash from the Kissinger household in Washington's Georgetown section on Tuesday.

Gourley, who was quizzed for two hours by the Secret Service, retained the five bags of trash.

Reporter Steve Mitchell of the Palm Beach Post was luckier in his efforts Wednesday. He managed to slip away undetected after he rummaged through an Enquirer dumpster.

"My goal was the same as the Enquirer reporter: to sort through old bills and any other old documents for a story," Mitchell wrote of his escapade. "If apprehended, my defense would be the same as the Enquirer's: the trash and garbage, once discarded, belongs to anybody who has the stomach to go through it."

Mitchell said it took him just three minutes to stuff a big bag chock full of the Enquirer's leavings.

He said he rejected "the ruins of a pizza and the gnawed hulk of what once had been the pride of Col. Sanders" and concentrated on printed material that turned out to be rejected stories and correspondence, computer print-outs of Enquirer stories and other relatively routine items.

"It was not until we arrived back at the Post and began going through our loot that I realized what a prize we had," Mitchell wrote. "It was nothing less than the secret of the National Enquirer's success — a memo to the editorial staff from publisher Generoso Pope Jr. himself."

Mitchell said the Aug. 17, 1973, memo told the staff how to write stories "packed with color and emotion ... We need quotes that tug at the heart. Prod, push and probe the main characters in the story. Help them frame their answers."

Mitchell said Pope gave his workers an example: "How did it feel?" "Bad." "No, I mean what did it feel like?" "I don't know, it just hurt." "Was it a sharp pain?" "No." "Was it more like a toothache?" "No."

"Did you ever feel anything like it before?" "Not really, but it was something like an electrical shock." "Where did you feel it?" "It hit me in the back of the neck and went down my spine." "Did you scream?" "I couldn't."

According to Pope's memo, the reporter is ready to proceed: "Let's see if I got this straight. You said, 'The pain hit me. It was like an electric shock. It started in my neck and shot down my spine. I wanted to scream but I couldn't. I've never felt anything like it.'" "Yes, that's it."

Meanwhile, Commerce Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton is trying to get someone from the Enquirer to pick up the trash from his house in Alexandria, Va.

"Tuesday and Thursdays," Morton jokingly told Nat Chzan, editor of the Enquirer, in a telephone conversation Wednesday. But Chzan said he wasn't authorized to order Gourley to snatch Morton's trash.

Showers And Storms In Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Scattered showers and thundershowers were forecast today from the Lower Mississippi Valley through the southern half of the Appalachians to the southern Atlantic Coast.

Showers and thundershowers were also predicted for the New England and Plateau regions, with mild temperatures from the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley through the Central and Northern Plains into the northern Rocky Mountains.

High temperatures were forecast for the Pacific Northwest west of the divide, with warm readings throughout the rest of the nation.

Thundershowers were scattered over nearly every part of the nation Wednesday, producing severe weather in the Upper Mississippi Valley, the Central Gulf states and in the Northern and Central Atlantic Coast states.

A tornado was reported near the town of Stinnett in the Texas Panhandle, and hail was seen in Butte, Mont. Tornadoes struck North Dakota, Wisconsin and Maryland, and winds of up to 62 miles an hour hit Louisiana, causing some damage. Heavy rains resulted in some flooding in the West, and flash flood warnings were posted in Portland, Ore.; Los Angeles; Reno, Nev., and Boise, Idaho.

THE deadline for making changes of listings in the Circleville telephone directory is Thursday, General Telephone Co. of Ohio said today.

William D. Anderson, Circleville customer service manager, said customers should report any corrections in their phone listings or change of address planned before October to the company's business office no later than July 17.

Anderson said this would affect any person or business planning to move or install a telephone before the directory is published. "If we know of changes in advance, we can make sure the customer's name, address and correct phone number are listed in the new directory."

The manager said the 1975 directory is being compiled and will be delivered in October.

Other communities listed in the book with Circleville are Ashville, Laurelville and Williamsport.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed upward again today, adding to Wednesday's broadly based gains.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up nearly a point, and gainers took a 2-1 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers reported a continuing atmosphere of encouragement over the steady of short term interest rates in the past two days after a substantial recent rise.

The market also appeared to be responding to some pleasant surprises among the first second-quarter earnings reports. Texaco was unchanged at 26 1/2 in a 299,900-share block trade just after the opening.

Other early prices included NL Industries, up 1/4 at 16 1/4; Natomas, 3/8 higher at 34 1/4, and Monroe Equipment, down 1/4 at 10.

Kissinger, French Officials Confer On Oil Problems

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger confers today with French officials about the stymied attempt to start a dialogue between the Arab oil producers and the industrial nations who are their chief customers.

Later in the day he flies to Geneva to discuss the Middle East and nuclear weapons with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

U.S. officials said Kissinger believes another preliminary energy conference can begin within two months and that separate commissions dealing with energy, raw materials and the problems of developing nations can start their deliberations by the end of the year.

The first preparatory meeting collapsed in April when the United States and other industrial nations rejected demands by Algeria and other developing nations that the oil conference be broadened to include all raw materials.

Kissinger in May put forward a compromise proposal for several conferences working simultaneously. Last week, the major oil-consuming nations agreed on the three-pronged approach. Charles Robinson, the under-secretary of state for economic affairs, is visiting Brazil after stops in Iran, Saudi Arabia and Venezuela, and a senior American official commented: "It's now beginning to crystallize."

However, U.S. officials are not optimistic about holding back another oil price increase next fall. But they think it will be less than the $3 to $4 a barrel predicted in some quarters.

Newsmen traveling with Kissinger were told he expects Gromyko to give him "an answer" on verification procedures and a number of other issues involved in the proposed 10-year treaty to limit the size of the Soviet and American nuclear arsenals. Kissinger in turn will give Gromyko his assessment of the Soviet position.

On Friday, Kissinger intends to raise the problems of his negotiations to work out another agreement between Israel and Egypt for another Israeli withdrawal in the Sinai desert.

While reports from the Middle East suggest the two sides have moved closer together, Kissinger dismissed as "totally wrong" a suggestion that an agreement has already been wrapped up.

"We are not anywhere near that point," he said as he left Washington.

Kissinger will meet on Saturday in Bonn with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, who is on an official visit to West Germany. Newsmen were told that the unsettled points include the extent of the Israeli withdrawal and control of the electronic surveillance network that Israel now operates near the Gidi and Mitla mountain passes in the Sinai Desert.

Jobless May Work On Railroad Tracks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of unemployed persons would be put to work patching up deteriorating railroad tracks throughout the nation under legislation before Congress.

Officials of Amtrak and railroad labor organizations gave their support Wednesday to four bills designed to reduce unemployment while improving the rail system.

Testifying before the House subcommittee on transportation and commerce, Amtrak President Paul Reistrup said that top priority for all upgrading should be given on routes on which Amtrak operates.

He noted that Amtrak is modernizing its aging fleet of passenger cars and has placed more than $25 million in orders for new locomotives, cars and turbine powered trains.

Ramsey Clark In The Soup

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Don Young has ordered former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark to show cause why he shouldn't be held in contempt of court for violating Young's silence order.

Young, who is presiding over the civil damages trial brought by victims of the 1970 shootings at Kent State University, had barred lawyers involved in the case from discussing it publicly.

In a June 11 hearing, Young was shown news film of an interview during which Clark talked about the case. Young said he had been too busy to write the show-cause order which normally would have been issued shortly after that hearing. In the order issued Wednesday, Clark is given 20 days in which to respond.

Clark worked with plaintiffs during pretrial preparation but spokesmen for him said he hadn't been affiliated with the case since jury selection began May 19.

A second similar but broader no-discussion order issued by Young was challenged successfully by Columbia Broadcasting Co. The initial order applying to attorneys wasn't challenged in court.

Malpractice Bill Amendments Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Senate subcommittee planned to meet again this afternoon to go over about 30 more proposed amendments to the House-passed medical malpractice insurance bill.

It adopted about 20 changes in the House version Tuesday night and Wednesday, including one which set a $500,000 limit on amounts which could be recovered in malpractice suits.

The subcommittee of the Senate Elections, Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee also approved a series of amendments hiking surcharges which could be assessed doctors and hospitals to assure solvency of the bill's proposed assigned risk pool.

Sen. Charles L. Butts, D-23 Cleveland, offered the amendments on grounds the pool could run short after two or three years "when you would expect the calms to start coming in."

The pool would function under a Joint Underwriting Association which would provide insurance coverage for doctors and hospitals unable to obtain it elsewhere.

Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-16 Columbus, who heads the subcommittee, said he hopes the panel can finish its work on the bill by Friday.

In other business, Gerald S. Gold, Cleveland attorney and spokesman for the criminal justice committee of the Ohio State Bar Association, urged revisions in the omnibus drug control bill, approved by the House and pending in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

He said the bar association's committee would like to see the Senate delete from the bill its mandated prison sentences for more serious drug law violations. Gold maintained the bill, as written, would take discretion away from judges and place it instead into the hands of police and prosecutors.

"The big dope peddler and the guy a tiny bit involved would be treated the same under the bill as it is now," said Gold.

The House Judiciary Committee, in other action, recommended passage of a bill which would revise laws which provide exemptions from jury duty.

Members of the same committee viewed a special showing of the television film "Cry Rape" which underscores the plight of women victims seeking to bring their attackers to justice.

The panel is considering a Senate-passed bill which would prohibit introduction of evidence at rape trials concerning unrelated sexual incidents of a victim's past.

Indiana Job Claims Drop

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Claims for unemployment benefits declined nearly 12,000 last week from the previous week's total.

"It's possibly the most significant drop we've had in recent weeks," said Charles N. Mazza of the Indiana Employment Security Division.

Claims dropped 600 the week before and 3,900 the week before that. The latest count marks the greatest drop since the last week of May when claims dipped 10,000.

Nevertheless, officials said the job market in Indiana is improving only slowly. And 10,685 Hoosiers filed new claims for unemployment benefits last week. That was 318 more than the previous week.

IESD Director John F. Coppes credited scattered job recalls and the holiday-shortened work week for some of the decline in claims.

Astronaut Thrilled By Space Linkup

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The sight of Navy jets hurtling down a runway and climbing flawlessly into the morning sun lured Vance D. Brand away from bayonets and bullets into aviation and space.

Brand, 44 and one of the American astronauts on the U.S.-Russian spaceflight this month, was training to be a Marine combat officer when the sheer fascination of flight charted a new career for him.

"It doesn't make much sense," Brand said. "I'd sit at the breakfast table with my wife and see FJ2 Furies take off from Cherry Point, N.C. (a Marine base). I thought that was the most beautiful thing I'd ever seen and I just wanted to try it."

Brand switched to flight school and started on a path that carries him into orbit this month on the first international space trip. He and crewmates Thomas P. Stafford and Donald K. Slayton will guide an Apollo spacecraft to a rendezvous and docking with a Soviet craft.

To Brand, the joint U.S.-Russian mission is a fascinating mixture of technical skill and diplomacy.

"I think this mission is extremely interesting from the dealing-with-the-Russians point of view," he said. "It's something that gives a chance to spread your wings, not only in the technical area, but in the international relations area."

Diplomacy with Soviet cosmonauts is not complicated by differences in political philosophy or ideas of government, Brand said.

Cooperation in space started, he said, "because astronauts and cosmonauts were able to communicate, in many cases a lot better than the world leaders, simply because astronauts and cosmonauts were doing a unique thing and had a certain camaraderie as a result."

"This mission has been a springboard for detente," he added.

Brand finds it ironic that he was training for a Marine combat role in 1953 when America was battling Communist forces in Korea and now will meet in space with two members of the Soviet Communist party.

"I'm sure if you'd ask them the cosmonauts they'd say, 'Yes, I'm a Communist,'" Brand said. "None of us have ever asked them how they felt about following the doctrine right down the line to the point of taking us over."

Brand is a native of Longmont, Colo., a small city north of Denver. His father was a veterinarian in that ranching country and the astronaut grew up with the Rocky Mountains for his backyard.

He was graduated from the University of Colorado with a business degree in 1953 and went into the Marine Corps. After earning pilot's wings and serving 15 months in Japan, Brand returned to his alma mater for a degree in aeronautical engineering. As a civilian in 1960, Brand joined the select ranks of experimental test pilots and worked for an aircraft company in development of the F104 jet fighter. He was one of 19 astronauts selected by NASA in 1966 and is one of the few civilian-pilot astronauts in the corps.

The astronaut is married to the former Joan Virginia Weninger, a Chicagoan he met while they were both students at Colorado.

The Brands have four children, Susan, 21, Stephanie, 19, Patrick, 17, and Kevin, 11.

Indiana Job Claims Drop

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Claims for unemployment benefits declined nearly 12,000 last week from the previous week's total.

"It's possibly the most significant drop we've had in recent weeks," said Charles N. Mazza of the Indiana Employment Security Division.

Claims dropped 600 the week before and 3,900 the week before that. The latest count marks the greatest drop since the last week of May when claims dipped 10,000.

Nevertheless, officials said the job market in Indiana is improving only slowly. And 10,685 Hoosiers filed new claims for unemployment benefits last week. That was 318 more than the previous week.

IESD Director John F. Coppes credited scattered job recalls and the holiday-shortened work week for some of the decline in claims.

Astronaut Thrilled By Space Linkup

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The sight of Navy jets hurtling down a runway and climbing flawlessly into the morning sun lured Vance D. Brand away from bayonets and bullets and into aviation and space.

Brand, 44 and one of the American astronauts on the U.S.-Russian spaceflight this month, was training to be a Marine combat officer when the sheer fascination of flight charted a new career for him.

"It doesn't make much sense," Brand said. "I'd sit at the breakfast table with my wife and see FJ2 Furies take off from Cherry Point, N.C. (a Marine base). I thought that was the most beautiful thing I'd ever seen and I just wanted to try it."

Brand switched to flight school and started on a path that carries him into orbit this month on the first international space trip. He and crewmates Thomas P. Stafford and Donald K. Slayton will guide an Apollo spacecraft to a rendezvous and docking with a Soviet craft.

To Brand, the joint U.S.-Russian mission is a fascinating mixture of technical skill and diplomacy.

"I think this mission is extremely interesting from the dealing-with-the-Russians point of view," he said. "It's something that gives a chance to spread your wings, not only in the technical area, but in the international relations area."

Diplomacy with Soviet cosmonauts is not complicated by differences in political philosophy or ideas of government, Brand said.

Cooperation in space started, he said, "because astronauts and cosmonauts were able to communicate, in many cases a lot better than the world leaders, simply because astronauts and cosmonauts were doing a unique thing and had a certain camaraderie as a result."

"This mission has been a springboard for detente," he added. Brand finds it ironic that he was training for a Marine combat role in 1953 when America was battling Communist forces in Korea and now will meet in space with two members of the Soviet Communist party.

"I'm sure if you'd ask them the cosmonauts they'd say, 'Yes, I'm a Communist,'" Brand said. "None of us have ever asked them how they felt about following the doctrine right down the line to the point of taking us over."

Brand is a native of Longmont, Colo., a small city north of Denver. His father was a veterinarian in that ranching country and the astronaut grew up with the Rocky Mountains for his backyard.

He was graduated from the University of Colorado with a business degree in 1953 and went into the Marine Corps. After earning pilot's

They Met The Test

Many were reluctant. Some were sure there was a better way. All knew they were moving into the shadow of the gallows. But there was no fear among them when they voted "That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be, Free and Independent States."

Some eyes were bright with unshed tears when the fateful words of dissolution of ancient bonds fell on straining ears. They were embarking on a voyage into uncharted seas. They could not then foresee its glories, but they could be sure of its perils and it was not lightly that in support of their Declaration they pledged "our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor."

It was to be seven years before affirmation became fact, seven hard years of suffering and death, seven years of courage and incredible achievement. Americans were to learn, generation after generation, that freedom and independence are neither easily achieved nor preserved without pain and sacrifice.

For 199 years it has been necessary for Americans to fight and to die to give substance to what seemed at the time to be the vague ideal of representative government, with liberty and freedom for all.

The earlier Americans, who fought at Lexington and Bunker Hill, at Saratoga, Trenton and Valley Forge, won their war. They won their independence and with it their rights as free men.

They founded a nation that has become one of the strongest and freest in the world. But at crises in the course of history it has been necessary to renew this strength, to defend this freedom, always at the price of the blood of men.

As new crises arise in the future Americans will not be found lacking in what it takes to meet the situation.

Books Speak Volumes

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Now that Hollywood is practically dead as the locale of movie-making, and a new generation wonders if Jean Harlow could have held a candle to Goldie Hawn or Chaplin to Don Rickles, it is comforting to read two entrancing books about the largely abandoned film capital's good (and bad) old days.

Sam Marx's "Mayer and Thalberg — the Make-Believe Saints" (Random House) is an enlightening excursion into the world of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer when it was the Rome of the motion picture universe and Louis B. Mayer was its Caesar; Irving Thalberg its Marc Antony. They worked together for 13 years and it was Caesar, to transpose the analogy, who spoke the ulogy over Antony.

There were giants in those days at Metro and elsewhere and the whole world awaited their periodic screen appearances and was fascinated by their occasional deflation to human-sized stature. Sam Marx, first as a bright young New Yorker who became story editor of Metro and later as an MGM producer, knew them all — with and without greasepaint. "All" meant such people as the Barrymores, Chaplin, the elder Fairbanks, Garbo, Gable, Crawford, Harlow, Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery, Norma Shearer, John Gilbert. He "found" the luminous child who developed — and that's the word — into Elizabeth Taylor.

As a scenarist, pro tem, I had a touch of that rich realm before it all went away like something in a dream sequence. My main memory is of Mayer. He was born in 1885 in Minsk, Russia, raised in Canada, showed up in Boston in 1904 as an illiterate junk dealer who moonlighted as a film distributor. As head of MGM he paid himself the biggest annual salary in the nation, owned a successful racing stable, was on a first-name basis with President Franklin Roosevelt, Cardinal Spellman and Kings of Industry, surrounded himself with platoons of sycophants, gave "audiences" to Louella Parsons and Hedda Hopper (rather than interviews), the sports columnist of the Los Angeles Examiner. One night after the sneak preview of one of his costlier pictures, Mayer was being showered with congratulations by members of his party. One member was silent, and that was too much for Mayer.

"What did you think of it, Vince?" he asked the big Irishman.

Flaherty thought for a time, then said, "Stinks." Mayer had the picture redone.

Thalberg contributed great style and distinction to MGM, and Mayer was shrewd enough to delegate authority — and much money — to his protegee. But what started out as a father-son sort of relation curdled in the end, though they continued to turn out incomparable motion pictures. Sam Marx tells it best: Thalberg's funeral was remembered for the inconsolable grief of Mayer. He had to be assisted to his limousine after the service. Once away from the scene, however, L.B.'s tears stopped flowing. He turned to Eddie Mannix, his strong-arm man, and beamed, "Isn't God good to me?"

Gerold Frank's "Judy," 637 pages of the triumphs and tragedies of Judy Garland, published by Harper & Row, confirms the fact (as if it were needed) that he is one of the major craftsmen of our times. He has labored immensely on the difficult task of submitting to paper the effervescence and decay of a tragic minstrel whose magic survives her death. The young should be forced at gunpoint to watch her in Jack Haley Jr.'s "That's Entertainment."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When things go wrong in our economic life we tend to look for scapegoats, and so we blame the Arabs, big business, big labor, the government, speculators, politicians, and on through an endless list.

Quite easily we satisfy ourselves about their culpability and don't bother to search for deeper explanations, of which there are often quite a few. Remember the ubiquitous middleman and high food prices in 1974.

The middleman, presumably everyone who stood between the farmer and the consumer, was stealing money right out of our pockets, or at least we liked to say that. His greed became legend. He was ruining the country.

Well, now the middleman has been cleared, if it makes any difference at this late date. He was not to blame, said the Council on Wage and Price Stability, for the 12.2 per cent increase in food prices last year.

Instead, it said, higher world oil prices, the end of government price controls and rising wages, among other factors, contributed to the increase. There were no villains, said the council.

No villains? There has to be, you say. Well, perhaps there was one: You. Food bills are rising for many reasons, the council said, but one of them is the fact that Americans are eating at restaurants more often.

Even when Americans eat at home, the study showed, they tend to choose convenience foods, or foods that already have been partially prepared. Whereas we use our own labor when we prepare raw foods, we pay for somebody else's when the food comes processed.

The truth is, the council continued, pricing patterns between farmers and food marketers, or middlemen, haven't changed very much over the past half century. Forty per cent of the food bill goes to farmers, 60 per cent to processors, wholesalers and retailers.

With the villain theory removed, Americans are forced to look inward for their explanations. One of those explanations lies in rising expectations, which we have come to think of as our heritage.

Especially during the 1960s, Americans believed strongly that their lives would become better by the day. Higher wages, more luxuries and conveniences and comforts, and better services were expected as a right.

The dream came true for many Americans and, rather than being satisfied, they seemed to aspire for even more. Human desires, said George Katona, a pioneer consumer scholar, are never satisfied.

But progress, even of this sort, doesn't take place in a straight line. Reality intruded in the form of bills to pay and rising taxes and recession and inflation. The adjustment was difficult.

Surveys now show that Americans aren't that cocky anymore about the future.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My sister takes a lot of barbiturates during the day and for sleep at night. I'm sure that her doctor doesn't prescribe these pills. We don't know where she gets them. How can we help her?

Miss D. E., Tenn.

Dear Miss E.:

The use, overuse and abuse of sleeping pills has led to a great increase in addiction to barbiturates. Despite the most rigid restrictions by physicians and health authorities, the illicit trade continues unabated.

Unfortunately, many immoral people thrive on the weaknesses of those who feel they need the barbiturates to survive.

There are, perhaps, about 75 different brand names of barbiturates. All have a basically similar composition.

Tolerance to these drugs may vary, but abusers of them find that larger and larger doses are needed to produce the same effect.

It is urgent that you tell your sister's doctor about the problem so that he can begin to approach her with some of the methods now available to reduce her addiction.

It is not generally known that barbiturate addiction can produce consequences as serious as those of heroin and morphine. It is also unknown to the laity that withdrawal from barbiturate addiction can be more dangerous than withdrawal from heroin.

With psychological guidance and proper direction by her doctor, your sister can be freed from the bondage of this severe form of drug dependence.

Can a hernia be operated on safely in an elderly man?

Mrs. C.L.B., Minn.

Dear Mrs. B.:

The great strides in anesthesia now make it possible for surgery to be performed safely and satisfactorily in all age groups.

New surgical techniques can be used, relying only on local anesthesia. All patients are carefully evaluated before an operation. The heart, lungs and circulatory system are thoroughly studied. In this way, the extent of the risk of an operation is determined and minimized.

'Harry The Hat' Was IRS Agent

WASHINGTON (AP) — For 18 months, Mr. A. spent most of his working hours as an undercover agent for the Internal Revenue Service in places such as Sally Russell's bar, the Juggler Lounge and Airliner Motel.

He was looking for people who might be trying to bribe IRS agents in Miami and Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and along the way he jotted down gossip heard in barrooms. He also quietly copied down telephone numbers he heard customers mention and even went into parking lots to record license plate numbers, including one on a Grayline Sightseeing bus.

Internal Revenue Service officials said that Mr. A., who also likes to be called Harry the Hat, was in charge of a secret intelligence gathering operation in the Miami area called Operation Sunshine. They released a report on it Tuesday.

It started Aug. 1, 1971, and before it was canceled Jan. 31, 1973, Mr. A. had compiled a list of 950 taxpayers, including judges, state and local politicians, a congressman and a newsman. They all had their income tax records checked as a result, the IRS said, but all were found innocent of any wrongdoing.

Mr. A. earned a salary of more than $39,500 for the 18 months he worked and had more than $10,500 reimbursed for his expenses in the bars and restaurants of Miami and Ft. Lauderdale, IR officials said.

Warren A. Bates, head of the IRS inspection division, told a House subcommittee that Mr. A. spent his time recording the names of taxpayers "who were potential bribees of internal revenue people. That's what Mr. A. was after, people who might bribe agents."

Bates and other IRS officials, including Commissioner Donald C. Alexander, testified before Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal's subcommittee on commerce, consumer and monetary affairs about details of Operation Sunshine.

Before the session had ended, a slip of the tongue by one IRS official disclosed Mr. A.'s real name, which the IRS said was being kept secret to protect him, and revealed the existence of still more undercover operations previously unknown to the public. Alexander was quick to say that none were currently in operation.

Prep Students Given Tests By Military

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 1.1 million high school students were given a free aptitude test which the Defense Department used to gather recruitment information, a Congressional investigative agency revealed Tuesday.

The investigation by the General Accounting Office (GOA) were made at the request of U.S. Rep. Charles A. Mosher, R-Oberlin, who received a complaint by an Elyria parent who was opposed to the testing.

The parent, Thomas Conrad of the Friends of Peace Committee, a Quaker organization, said the tests were administered without telling the students for what purpose they would be used.

GAO said 12 states adopted the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery as their prime counseling device. However, Ohio education officials said they couldn't estimate the extent the test is used in the state.

With the test results, military recruiters could potentially determine prospects for military service, the agency said.

GAO said that because the tests were offered at no charge, many poor school districts chose the test instead of another aptitude test offered by the Labor Department which costs 60 cents a pupil.

The Pentagon said it is evaluating its aptitude tests and said it should complete its study by next March.

There's No Way To Wash Windows

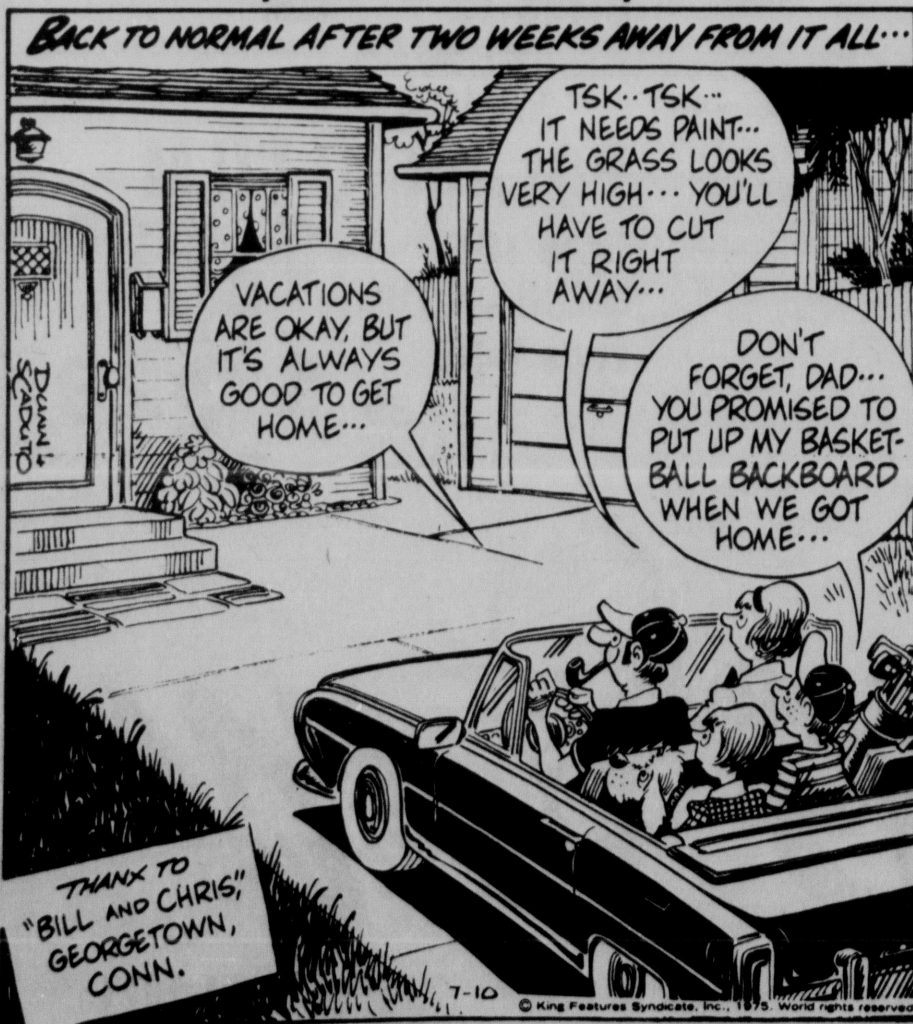

BELVEDERE, Calif. (AP) — George Gazulis's problems began in Belvedere in 1973 when he applied for permit to build a home on a small, legal but very steep lot.

Before the City Council got through checking ordinances Gazulis had to narrow his home to 20 feet in width to comply with a setback of 10 feet in the rear yard.

Then came the problem of how to wash two large picture windows on a two-and-a-half story house when he has no place to stand. He asked for the right to build a 30-inch catwalk without railings across the window wall of the house on each story so window washers would have some place to stand. The Planning Commission agreed but the neighbors put up so much opposition the commission backed down.

Gazulis found out it would cost him $200 to have professional window washers come in and put up temporary scaffolding to do the job.

That was too much for Gazulis and it is beginning to look as if he is going to have to live in a dirty fishbowl.

sacred Honor."

It was to be seven years before affirmation became fact, seven hard years of suffering and death, seven years of courage and incredible achievement. Americans were to learn, generation after generation, that freedom and independence are neither easily achieved nor preserved without pain and sacrifice.

For 199 years it has been necessary for Americans to fight and to die to give substance to what seemed at the time to be the vague ideal of representative government, with liberty and freedom for all.

The earlier Americans, who fought at Lexington and Bunker Hill, at Saratoga, Trenton and Valley Forge, won their war. They won their independence and with it their rights as free men.

They founded a nation that has become one of the strongest and freest in the world. But at crises in the course of history it has been necessary to renew this strength, to defend this freedom, always at the price of the blood of men.

As new crises arise in the future Americans will not be found lacking in what it takes to meet the situation.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My sister takes a lot of barbiturates during the day and for sleep at night. I'm sure that her doctor doesn't prescribe these pills. We don't know where she gets them. How can we help her?

Miss D. E., Tenn.

Dear Miss E.:

The use, overuse and abuse of sleeping pills has led to a great increase in addiction to barbiturates. Despite the most rigid restrictions by physicians and health authorities, the illicit trade continues unabated.

Unfortunately, many immoral people thrive on the weaknesses of those who feel they need the barbiturates to survive.

There are, perhaps, about 75 different brand names of barbiturates. All have a basically similar composition.

Tolerance to these drugs may vary, but abusers of them find that larger and larger doses are needed to produce the same effect.

It is urgent that you tell your sister's doctor about the problem so that he can begin to approach her with some of the methods now available to reduce her addiction. It is not generally known that barbiturate addiction can produce consequences as serious as those of heroin and morphine. It is also unknown to the laity that withdrawal from barbiturate addiction can be more dangerous than withdrawal from heroin.

With psychological guidance and proper direction by her doctor, your sister can be freed from the bondage of this severe form of drug dependence.

Can a hernia be operated on safely in an elderly man?

Mrs. C.L.B., Minn.

Dear Mrs. B.:

The great strides in anesthesia now make it possible for surgery to be performed safely and satisfactorily in all age groups.

New surgical techniques can be used, relying only on local anesthesia. All patients are carefully evaluated before an operation. The heart, lungs and circulatory system are thoroughly studied. In this way, the extent of the risk of an operation is determined and minimized.

Books Speak Volumes

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Now that Hollywood is practically dead as the locale of movie-making, and a new generation wonders if Jean Harlow could have held a candle to Goldie Hawn or Chaplin to Don Rickles, it is comforting to read two entrancing books about the largely abandoned film capital's good (and bad) old days.

Sam Marx's "Mayer and Thalberg — the Make-Believe Saints" (Random House) is an enlightening excursion into the world of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer when it was the Rome of the motion picture universe and Louis B. Mayer was its Caesar; Irving Thalberg its Marc Antony. They worked together for 13 years and it was Caesar, to transpose the analogy, who spoke the uology over Antony.

There were giants in those days at Metro and elsewhere and the whole world awaited their periodic screen appearances and was fascinated by their occasional deflation to human-sized stature. Sam Marx, first as a bright young New Yorker who became studio editor of Metro and later as an MGM producer, knew them all — with and without greasepaint. "All" meant such people as the Barrymores, Chaplin, the elder Fairbanks, Garbo, Gable, Crawford, Harlow, Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery, Norma Shearer, John Gilbert. He "found" the luminous child who developed — and that's the word — into Elizabeth Taylor.

As a scenarist, pro tem, I had a touch of that rich realm before it all went away like something in a dream sequence. My main memory is of Mayer. He was born in 1885 in Minsk, Russia, raised in Canada, showed up in Boston in 1904 as an illiterate junk dealer who moonlighted as a film distributor. As head of MGM he paid himself the biggest annual salary in the nation, owned a successful racing stable, was on a first-name basis with President Franklin Roosevelt, Cardinal Spellman and Kings of Industry, surrounded himself with platoons of sycophants, gave "audiences" to Louella Parsons and Hedda Hopper (rather than interviews) and knew no "No men" with the possible exception of Vincent Flaherty, the sports columnist of the Los Angeles Examiner. One night after the sneak preview of one of his costlier pictures, Mayer was being showered with congratulations by members of his party. One member was silent, and that was too much for Mayer.

"What did you think of it, Vince?" he asked the big Irishman.

Flaherty thought for a time, then said, "Stinks." Mayer had the picture redone.

Thalberg contributed great style and distinction to MGM, and Mayer was shrewd enough to delegate authority — and much money — to his protegee. But what started out as a father-son sort of relation curdled in the end, though they continued to turn out incomparable motion pictures. Sam Marx tells it best: Thalberg's funeral was remembered for the inconsolable grief of Mayer. He had to be assisted to his limousine after the service. Once away from the scene, however, L.B.'s tears stopped flowing. He turned to Eddie Mannix, his strong-arm man, and beamed, "Isn't God good to me?"

Gerold Frank's "Judy," 637 pages of the triumphs and tragedies of Judy Garland, published by Harper & Row, confirms the fact (as if it were needed) that he is one of the major craftsmen of our times. He has labored immensely on the difficult task of submitting to paper the effervescence and decay of a tragic minstrel whose magic survives her death. The young should be forced at gunpoint to watch her in Jack Haley Jr.'s "That's Entertainment."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When things go wrong in our economic life we tend to look for scapegoats, and so we blame the Arabs, big business, big labor, the government, speculators, politicians, and on through an endless list.

Quite easily we satisfy ourselves about their culpability and don't bother to search for deeper explanations, of which there are often quite a few. Remember the ubiquitous middleman and high food prices in 1974.

The middleman, presumably everyone who stood between the farmer and the consumer, was stealing money right out of our pockets, or at least we liked to say that. His greed became legend. He was ruining the country.

Well, now the middleman has been cleared, if it makes any difference at this late date. He was not to blame, said the Council on Wage and Price Stability, for the 12.2 per cent increase in food prices last year.

Instead, it said, higher world oil prices, the end of government price controls and rising wages, among other factors, contributed to the increase. There were no villains, said the council.

No villains? There has to be, you say. Well, perhaps there was one: You. Food bills are rising for many reasons, the council said, but one of them is the fact that Americans are eating at restaurants more often.

Even when Americans eat at home, the study showed, they tend to choose convenience foods, or foods that already have been partially prepared. Whereas we use our own labor when we prepare raw foods, we pay for somebody else's when the food comes processed.

The truth is, the council continued, pricing patterns between farmers and food marketers, or middlemen, haven't changed very much over the past half century. Forty per cent of the food bill goes to farmers, 60 per cent to processors, wholesalers and retailers.

With the villain theory removed, Americans are forced to look inward for their explanations. One of those explanations lies in rising expectations, which we have come to think of as our heritage.

Especially during the 1960s, Americans believed strongly that their lives would become better by the day. Higher wages, more luxuries and conveniences and comforts, and better services were expected as a right.

The dream came true for many Americans and, rather than being satisfied, they seemed to aspire for even more. Human desires, said George Katona, a pioneer consumer scholar, are never satisfied.

But progress, even of this sort, doesn't take place in a straight line. Reality intruded in the form of bills to pay and rising taxes and recession and inflation. The adjustment was difficult.

Surveys now show that Americans aren't that cocky anymore about the future.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Gen. William V. McBride, director of the Air Force Logistics Command since September 1974, will become vice chief of staff of the Air Force, the Air Force announced Wednesday.

McBride, who also served as Air Training Commander for two years, will replace Gen. Richard H. Ellis on Sept. 1. Ellis will command the U.S. Air Force in Europe.

McBride, who will receive his fourth star when he takes his new position, has been in military service since 1942. He is a native of Wampum, Pa.

Judson Lanman was named superintendent of Deercreek Township schools, succeeding Joseph J. Horst who had resigned. Lanman had been serving as principal and coach of Walnut High School.

Three girls, born at New Holland, were believed to be the county's first triplets. Weighing a combined 18 pounds, Wanda, Wilma and Wanita, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kingery at their home in New Holland. The Kingerys were already the parents of two other daughters, ages five and three.

Paul J. Hang, first military member to return to active status in the Circleville Kiwanis Club, related his experiences in the Army when he was the guest speaker at the meeting.

The large plate glass from the windows of the Crist Building at the corner of Court and Main Sts. were removed as work was begun to transform the apparel store into a drug store. A dry goods store had been located there ever since the circle had been squared in 1840.

'Harry The Hat' Was IRS Agent

WASHINGTON (AP) — For 18 months, Mr. A. spent most of his working hours as an undercover agent for the Internal Revenue Service in places such as Sally Russell's bar, the Juggler Lounge and Airliner Motel.

He was looking for people who might be trying to bribe IRS agents in Miami and Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and along the way he jotted down gossip heard in barrooms. He also quietly copied down telephone numbers he heard customers mention and even went into parking lots to record license plate numbers, including one on a Grayline Sightseeing bus.

Internal Revenue Service officials said that Mr. A., who also likes to be called Harry the Hat, was in charge of a secret intelligence gathering operation in the Miami area called Operation Sunshine. They released a report on it Tuesday.

It started Aug. 1, 1971, and before it was canceled Jan. 31, 1973, Mr. A. had compiled a list of 950 taxpayers, including judges, state and local politicians, a congressman and a newsman. They all had their income tax records checked as a result, the IRS said, but all were found innocent of any wrongdoing.

Mr. A. earned a salary of more than $39,500 for the 18 months he worked and had more than $10,500 reimbursed for his expenses in the bars and restaurants of Miami and Ft. Lauderdale, IR officials said.

Warren A. Bates, head of the IRS inspection division, told a House subcommittee that Mr. A. spent his time recording the names of taxpayers "who were potential bribees of internal revenue people. That's what Mr. A. was after, people who might bribe agents."

Bates and other IRS officials, including Commissioner Donald C. Alexander, testified before Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal's subcommittee on commerce, consumer and monetary affairs about details of Operation Sunshine.

Before the session had ended, a slip of the tongue by one IRS official disclosed Mr. A.'s real name, which the IRS said was being kept secret to protect him, and revealed the existence of still more undercover operations previously unknown to the public. Alexander was quick to say that none were currently in operation.

Prep Students Given Tests By Military

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 1.1 million high school students were given a free aptitude test which the Defense Department used to gather recruitment information, a Congressional investigative agency revealed Tuesday.

The investigation by the General Accounting Office (GOA) were made at the request of U.S. Rep. Charles A. Mosher, R-Oberlin, who received a complaint by an Elyria parent who was opposed to the testing.

The parent, Thomas Conrad of the Friends of Peace Committee, a Quaker organization, said the tests were administered without telling the students for what purpose they would be used.

GAO said 12 states adopted the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery as their prime counseling device. However, Ohio education officials said they couldn't estimate the extent the test is used in the state.

With the test results, military recruiters could potentially determine prospects for military service, the agency said.

GAO said that because the tests were offered at no charge, many poor school districts chose the test instead of another aptitude test offered by the Labor Department which costs 60 cents a pupil.

The Pentagon said it is evaluating its aptitude tests and said it should complete its study by next March.

There's No Way To Wash Windows

BELVEDERE, Calif. (AP) — George Gazulis's problems began in Belvedere in 1973 when he applied for permit to build a home on a small, legal but very steep lot.

Before the City Council got through checking ordinances Gazulis had to narrow his home to 20 feet in width to comply with a setback of 10 feet in the rear yard.

Then came the problem of how to wash two large picture windows on a two-and-a-half story house when he has no place to stand. He asked for the right to build a 30-inch catwalk without railings across the window wall of the house on each story so window washers would have some place to stand. The Planning Commission agreed but the neighbors put up so much opposition the commission backed down.

Gazulis found out it would cost him $200 to have professional window washers come in and put up temporary scaffolding to do the job.

That was too much for Gazulis and it is beginning to look as if he is going to have to live in a dirty fishbowl.

7-Year-Old Girl Turns Out To Be Gargantuan Trencher

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Cheree Taylor won an eating contest by downing 11 hard boiled eggs in four minutes, placed second in the pie eating event and then polished off six cotton candies, six ice cream cones, fried chicken, potato salad and baked beans.

Since that Fourth of July picnic contest, the skinny 7-year-old has been eating, eating, eating.

"Until last weekend we had to literally force her to eat and sometimes we even had to paddle her rear," her mother, Sherry Taylor, said Tuesday. "We had even taken her to the doctor because she was so skinny."

"We don't know what to do now — be happy or worried. I don't know what's gotten into her."

Ever since the Friday eating binge, the 55-pound youngster has been stuffing herself daily with more food than "anybody in the family," said Mrs. Taylor, who has two sons.

She says Cheree packs away a big breakfast, a big lunch and a big dinner, sandwiched around snacks.

Mrs. Taylor, 31, says she isn't really worried about Cheree's health "because she burns it off and hasn't gained any weight," but she says she has started to wonder about the family's budget.

Rhodes Reads Some Mail Himself

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If you write to Gov. James A. Rhodes, there's a chance he will read the letter himself. He likes to dash by his secretary's desk, pick up a stack of mail and read his constituents' opinions.

"He'll speed by my desk at times and just pick up a stack of mail and begin reading it," said Betty Pappas, the governor's appointments secretary.

Mrs. Pappas sorts the mail each morning, channeling the correspondence to different administrators in the executive office. The governor receives about 1,000 letters each week. Many contain requests for speaking engagements, jobs or complaints about government.

Every now and then, there is a letter that makes the governor laugh.

One 8-year-old boy wrote that he wanted the governor to pass a law lowering the age limit on marriage so he and his girlfriend could wed.

Another letter written by a youngster in parochial school began: "Dear gov: "We want you to help us get our money."

The youngster was apparently referring to a controversy over state aid to parochial schools.

History Favors Ford Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — As an incumbent president, Gerald R. Ford will have recent history on his side in 1976 in his bid for a full four-year term in the White House.

In the 20th century, 11 of 13 presidents who sought new terms were successful, including all four who inherited the presidency after having been elected vice president.

Ford, however, is the only former vice president to make it to the White House without having been elected to the No. 2 spot. Nominated by President Richard M. Nixon, and confirmed by Congress under the 25th amendment in 1973, Ford stepped up to the presidency when Nixon resigned last August.

That means the 1976 race will be his first ever for national office after 13 consecutive victories as a member of the House from his Grand Rapids, Mich., district. If Ford is successful in 1976, he will give the Republicans their third straight presidential victory.

The record of the 19 presidential elections in the 20th century shows that only two presidents were beaten in bids for new terms, both Republicans and both under unusual circumstances.

In 1912, President William Howard Taft was beaten by Democrat Woodrow Wilson in an unusual three-way race in which Taft's predecessor, Theodore Roosevelt, ran as a third party candidate. The combined Roosevelt-Taft vote was greater than Wilson's, but the GOP split gave the Democrats their first victory in 20 years.

The other incumbent who lost was Herbert Hoover. In 1932, with the nation plunging to the depths of its greatest modern economic depression, Hoover was soundly defeated by Democrat Franklin D. Roosevelt, the first Democratic victory in 16 years.

The four 20th Century men who inherited the White House through a presidential death were Theodore Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge, Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson. All were later elected to full terms.

In the other seven elections in which a president won a new term, Republicans William McKinley, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Nixon, and Democrats Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt were re-elected, Roosevelt three times.

In six other elections, neither candidate was an incumbent.

Mahoning River Will Run Red

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The Mahoning River will run red for a 32-mile stretch between Warren and Edinburg, Pa., July 21-25, weather permitting.

The U. S. Geological Survey will dump the dye in the river in order to monitor the stream's ability to transport and dilute waste material.

The dye is harmless to people, fish and plants when used in limited concentrations as planned, James F. Blakely of Columbus district chief of USGS, said.

History Favors Ford Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — As an incumbent president, Gerald R. Ford will have recent history on his side in 1976 in his bid for a full four-year term in the White House.

In the 20th century, 11 of 13 presidents who sought new terms were successful, including all four who inherited the presidency after having been elected vice president.

Ford, however, is the only former vice president to make it to the White House without having been elected to the No. 2 spot. Nominated by President Richard M. Nixon, and confirmed by Congress under the 25th amendment in 1973, Ford stepped up to the presidency when Nixon resigned last August.

That means the 1976 race will be his first ever for national office after 13 consecutive victories as a member of the House from his Grand Rapids, Mich., district. If Ford is successful in 1976, he will give the Republicans their third straight presidential victory.

The record of the 19 presidential elections in the 20th century shows that only two presidents were beaten in bids for new terms, both Republicans and both under unusual circumstances.

In 1912, President William Howard Taft was beaten by Democrat Woodrow Wilson in an unusual three-way race in which Taft's predecessor, Theodore Roosevelt, ran as a third party candidate. The combined Roosevelt-Taft vote was greater than Wilson's, but the GOP split gave the Democrats their first victory in 20 years.

The other incumbent who lost was Herbert Hoover. In 1932, with the nation plunging to the depths of its greatest modern economic depression, Hoover was soundly defeated by Democrat Franklin D. Roosevelt, the first Democratic victory in 16 years.

The four 20th Century men who inherited the White House through a presidential death were Theodore Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge, Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson. All were later elected to full terms.

Mahoning River Will Run Red

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The Mahoning River will run red for a 32-mile stretch between Warren and Edinburg, Pa., July 21-25, weather permitting.

The U. S. Geological Survey will dump the dye in the river in order to monitor the stream's ability to transport and dilute waste material.

The dye is harmless to people, fish and plants when used in limited concentrations as planned, James F. Blakely of Columbus district chief of USGS, said.

Zion United Methodist Church Setting For Marriage Vows

MR. AND MRS. JEFFREY A. SEYMOUR

Zion United Methodist Church in Ashville was the setting for the 7:30 p.m., June 14th, wedding of Miss Gayle L. Glick and Mr. Jeffrey A. Seymour.

The Rev. John Currans officiated the double ring service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Glick, Route 2, Ashville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Seymour, 310 Gary St., Ashville.

Church decorations included two vases of yellow rosebuds, baby's breath, daisies and carnations. Flanking the altar table were candles adorned with yellow rosebuds and daisies.

Miss Carolyn Lutz, organist, presented a half-hour of music arranged by the bride and bridegroom and recordings of today's music by Mr. Larry Peters were played and the program completed by Miss Lutz with the selection "A Time For Us."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. For her wedding she selected a white floor length gown of embroidered seersucker fashioned with tucks on the front and two deep ruffles at the bottom of the skirt, edged with embroidery. The long full sleeves were edged with multi-colored embroidery which also edged the collar, front tucks of the bodice and enhanced the top ruffle of the headpiece. The bride's veil was edged with wide embroidered lace and motifs of matching braid and caught to her shoulders. She carried a cascade arrangement of daisies, carnations, rosebuds, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Following the ceremony the bride and bridegroom each presented their mothers with long stemmed roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. John Purcell, wore an antique flowered voile gown lined with peach crepe and a peach picture hat. She carried a single long stemmed yellow rose tipped in peach.

Maid of honor, Mrs. Jackie Morris, was gowned as the honor attendant with blue crepe lining and her single yellow rose was tipped in blue. Bridesmaids, Miss Sue Glick and Miss Jill Glick, sisters of the bride, were gowned as the honor attendant with yellow and lavender crepe lining respectively. They carried single yellow roses tipped to match their gowns.

Mr. Bill Richard performed the duties of best man, and Mr. John Purcell, Mr. Chris Barr and Mr. Jeff Newman were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a purple orchid flowered floor length gown and the bridegroom's mother chose a floor length gown of multi-colored floral design with long sleeves of off-white.

A reception in the church parlor followed the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered wedding cake decorated with miniature flowers matching the attendants' gowns. A white arch was placed at the back of the table under which the couple stood to cut the cake.

Hostesses were Mrs. Frankie Aldridge, Miss Becky Cook, Mrs. Rick Pontious, Miss Loraine Montgomery and Mrs. Joe Haines, an aunt of the bride. Miss Bridget Haines, a cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book.

For a wedding trip to Salt Fork Lake Lodge, the bride wore a floor length gown of off-white with multi-colored embroidered flowers. The couple now resides in Ashville.

The new Mrs. Seymour is a graduate of Teays Valley High School and is employed as assistant supervisor at the Bureau of Motor Vehicles in Columbus.

Mr. Seymour, also a graduate of Teays Valley High School, is employed by Cardinal Industries as a maintenance mechanic in Columbus.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Dayton, Columbus, New Rome, Hilliard and Lancaster, Ohio,

Mrs. Martha Huston presented an interpretation of the Derby Garden Club's flower show schedule for the 1975 Derby Homecoming July 25th and 26th at the recent club meeting. Mrs. Huston, 1974 Outstanding Gardener in Region 9, demonstrated how the various arrangement classes of the "Derby Days" schedule might be done. She also suggested that members consider carefully the type of containers and the flowers to be used in the classes as the theme represents people; places and events of the founding of Darby Township in Pickaway County.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Gift-Giver Snows Mom

DEAR ABBY: I knew Lt. Col. John W. Kellogg, the Catholic who proudly wore a Star Of David, a symbol of the Jewish faith, in honor of three Jewish comrades in arms.

John was a bomber navigator in WWII. After a bombing run over the Ploiesti oil fields in Rumania, his plane was badly shot up. While the plane limped back to the Air Force base in Italy, the men tossed out everything that was loose to lighten the plane's load until nothing remained but the shell. It looked as though they weren't going to make it. When the Italian coastline was spotted, the

'Tecumseh' Breaks Records

W. L. Mundell, producer of "Tecumseh!" Bicentennial Drama, announced today, a record attendance increase during the first two full weeks of the '75 playing season.

"I am very pleased with our year-to-date figures", Mundell commented, citing a record 93 per cent audience increase for the period of June 20 - July 5. The increase figures are based on a comparison with the same time period last year.

"The causes for these figures", Mundell continued, "are many and include a more comprehensive promotion effort; better weather; a building of the awareness of the drama within our core and primary marketing areas; the fervor of the Bicentennial era; and the factors of inflation which cause the public to seek alternatives to long vacations in distant places".

"Tecumseh!" is running nightly except Sunday in the Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheatre near Chillicothe. The 1975 season ends on Aug. 30. For information, call toll free in Ohio 800-282-2015, or write "Tecumseh!" Box 73, Chillicothe, Ohio 45601.

"The 1974 season made us America's fastest growing outdoor drama," Mundell concluded. "This kind of increase should keep us in that position."

Colonial Children Rambunctious Too

EDITOR'S NOTE — Children were as rambunctious in 1775 as they are today, judging by an Albany, N.Y., law which authorized constables to seize and destroy the sleds of "boys and girls rydeing or offering to ryde down any hill."

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

"We hope to plant a nation, where none before hath stood." So wrote a poet among the earliest Virginia settlers. That their hope bore fruit, historians say, is a measure of the diligence with which colonial sowed their chief crop: children.

Nurtured by a steady stream of immigrants, the seed of a country scattered along the banks of the James River in the 1600s had grown by 1775 to a harvest of more than two million in total population from Maine to Georgia.

America at the start of the Revolution was an agrarian land and children often were thought of as additional farmhands. Broods of 10 were common. One South Carolina woman bore 34.

A Delaware journalist, writing the obituary of a Wilmington woman in 1771, underlined the chief object of marriage by devoting most of the obituary to the woman's descendants. Her 16 children, he noted, had extended her family an additional three generations, which he enumerated. "In all," he wrote, "238 living offspring survived her: the generation of the just shall be blessed."

Blessed indeed, for many children died before age 10. For whites, adults and children alike, the death rate was 35 per 1,000, and it was twice that for blacks. About half were children.

Rickets, caused by lack of vitamin D, was epidemic. Milk would have curbed the disease but children rarely drank it after their second birthday, when most were weaned. Diphtheria, malaria, yellow fever, smallpox, typhoid and dysentery also robbed cradles.

For medicine, parents relied on generally ineffective herbal remedies with an emphasis on strong, foul-tasting purgatives. There were few qualified doctors. Those who tried their hands at medicine prescribed large quantities of ipecac, calomel, quinine, mercury and opium.

Even for those who survived, childhood was short. Youngsters were thought of as miniature adults. Girls and boys wore clothes modeled on the rather elaborate costumes of their parents. They were expected to be good at their chores, which often were adultized. Discipline was strict. Father's were undisputed heads of household and demanded respect.

Historian Russel Blaine Nye notes: "In a frontier society boys and girls had to make their own way in life as soon as possible. Children of the late 18th and early 19th centuries reached maturity swiftly because they had to."

Educational preparation for adulthood varied widely with locale and class. In general, it was poor. "Teaching ... did not always attract men of the highest type," Nye says, "and contemporary school board minutes show numerous references to alcoholics, thieves, sadists and plain ignoramuses."

Textbooks, many of which had to be imported from England, were expensive and correspondingly limited. Among the most popular was the New England Primer, first published in 1690 and still in wide use during the 1770s. It emphasized morality and attention to scripture. The 1737 edition began with the admonition: "He who ne'er learns his A,B,C forever will a blockhead be."

The alphabet was illustrated with rough woodcuts portraying biblical events, many of them morbid.

For example, the letter X is illustrated with a man in a coffin and the accompanying verse reads, "Xerxes did die, And so must I." For Y, the illustration is a skeleton waiting to spirit away three young men at their cups. The verse: "While Youth do cheer Death may be near."

Youngsters still managed to amuse themselves. Among the diversions were dancing, spinning bees, barn raisings, whist, skating, wrestling, choirs, foot races, marbles, horse races, a few dolls, picnics, cricket, swimming, sailing, shooting, bowls, hunting, a version of soccer, backgammon and sleighing.

Children were as rambunctious then as now, judging by a no-nonsense Albany, N.Y., law: "Whereas ye children ... do very unorderly to ye shame and scandal of their parents ryde down ye streets ... with small and great sleighs ... by which accidents may come ... it shall and may be lawful for any constable ... or any other person to take any sleigh or sleighs from every such boys and girls rydeing or offering to ryde down any hill ... and break any sleigh or sleighs to pieces."

Apprenticeship was common. As commerce grew, training in a trade ship could be of more monetary value than the classical studies — Latin, Greek, natural science — offered in the country's nine colleges.

Young men intent on professions learned them not at college but afterwards with men practicing in their field. Thomas Jefferson, for example, learned law after leaving the College of William and Mary to study under George Wythe, the colony's foremost barrister. Patrick Henry taught himself the law.

When war came, young men routinely bore arms. In most colonies, they were obligated to join the militia at 14.

And there is the story of a 13-year-old militiaman from Carolina who was captured by the British. Defiant even in defeat, he refused an order to clean an officer's boots. The officer laid open his scalp with a saber. The boy's name was Andrew Jackson.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Gift-Giver Snows Mom

DEAR ABBY: I knew Lt. Col. John W. Kellogg, the Catholic who proudly wore a Star Of David, a symbol of the Jewish faith, in honor of three Jewish comrades in arms.

John was a bomber navigator in WWII. After a bombing run over the Ploiesti oil fields in Rumania, his plane was badly shot up. While the plane limped back to the Air Force base in Italy, the men tossed out everything that was loose to lighten the plane's load until nothing remained but the shell. It looked as though they weren't going to make it. When the Italian coastline was spotted, the captain ordered all his men to prepare to parachute to earth.

John bailed out and landed in a plowed field where an Italian farmer and his son were working. John was so grateful to be on terra firma that he dropped to his knees and began a prayer of thanksgiving.

The two Italians, having witnessed the scene, came over, doffed their caps, bowed their heads and also began to pray loudly.

After a few moments, John looked up and said, "F' chrissakes, shut up! I can't hear my own prayers!" The John I knew could be both reverent and irreverent.

ROY J. ARNSTON:
LAGUNA BEACH

DEAR ROY: Thanks for the memories!

DEAR ABBY: How do I go about telling the girl whom our son dates to please stop buying our family expensive gifts for every occasion? We do not want them because we can't afford to reciprocate.

She has a very large family, and because she gave everyone in our family she ever said hello to a very expensive Christmas gift last year, my son felt that he had to do the same for her family. (He is still paying for them.)

For St. Valentine's Day she gave ME a present and also my husband. On Mother's Day, another one, and she's not even engaged to our son. She even found out when our birthday's were (mine and my husband's, the other children's, even the grandparents!) and the presents come.

Please, please help me solve this. I have no objections to her and my son exchanging gifts, but I wish she would leave the rest of his family alone.

TOO MANY GIFTS

DEAR TOO MANY: Ask your son to tell the young lady that he appreciates her thoughtfulness and generosity but prefers that she discontinue the gift-giving to the members of his family. And if that doesn't do the trick, send her thank-you cards for the gifts, and let it go at that.

DEAR ABBY: This message is for Ed in La Mirada, who for 31 years has been saying things to his wife that might sound like insults to others but who insists he didn't mean them as such.

Ed ole buddy, your technique is abundantly clear. For 31 years, you've been announcing to everyone within earshot that your awareness of your own inferiority compels you to belittle your wife so that your own lack of worth will be less conspicuous.

You poor jerk, you might just as well have worn a big zero on your forehead.

Loan Interest Rate Boosts Win Approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Small loan companies will be able to make bigger loans and charge more for them under the terms of a bill passed Wednesday by the House.

The bill, passed 87-8, raises the interest rate for loans above $500 and allows loans of up to $3,000 for periods up to four years.

Under present law, the loans are limited to $2,000 for three years.

Sponsors said the small loan rate has not been changed since 1961, despite tighter money and higher operating costs.

They said the consumer loan business was ceasing to be profitable, driving reputable firms from the field and leaving the consumers to loan sharks.

"Will there be a reasonable consumer loan industry in Ohio, or will there be a return to the loan shark?" asked Rep. Frank H. Mayfield, R-65 Cincinnati. "Those are the alternatives."

Under present law, annual interest rates are set at 16 per cent for loans up to $500, nine per cent between $500 and $1,000 and seven per cent between $1,000 and $2,000.

Under the proposed law, the 16 per cent interest rate will apply to the first $750, with amounts between $750 and $1,500 carrying an 11 per cent interest rate and amounts between $1,500 and $3,000 a nine per cent rate.

Pen Guard Dismissals Being Heard

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The personnel Board of Review expects to take three weeks to complete hearings that result from the firing of 151 workers at three state penal institutions in May.

The hearings began Tuesday at Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville. They will move next week to Marion Correctional Institution and then to Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

Dismissed employees at those institutions, mainly guards, were fired after a "no contract" walkout in May. Sixtysix were dismissed at Lucasville, 60 at Marion and 25 at Chillicothe.

The three-member board has set aside three days for each of the facilities.

A ruling on the dismissals is not expected until after all the hearings are complete.

In a 2-1 vote last month, the board ruled workers participating in the walkout could be fired for absences of one or two days if they were proved to be "of sufficient seriousness."

Work Program Shows Success

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A year-old experiment designed to make generally tedious work more satisfying has helped break down traditional barriers between the City of Springfield and its public employees, the city manager says.

"My purpose is to get people to treat each other like human beings," City Manager Alfred P. Strodzdas said of the "Quality of Work" project under way among some 400 blue collar and clerical employees.

"It has gotten supervisors, cast in the role of ogres, to realize that the guy they are supervising has the same sort of aches and pains as their own."

The project is the brainchild of the Ohio Quality of Work Institute, a branch of the nonprofit Ohio Development Center, created under former Gov. John J. Gilligan in 1972. The center was designed to try to stem the loss of jobs and industry in Ohio.

The Springfield project is an effort to give workers more mobility through rotation of job duties while opening up channels of communications with supervisors.

The institute, which helped bring the city and labor together to launch the program last Aug. 9, has 13 other work quality projects on the drawing board. One other experiment is already under way at an unidentified industry in Cleveland, project coordinator John Brandt reported.

Brandt concurs with Strodzdas on the early success of the Springfield project, which is being developed by a 10-member labor-management committee of decisionmakers.

House Approves Animal Drug Ban

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill prohibiting the use of drugs on animals scheduled to compete at county fairs or exhibitions was approved 93-0 by the House Wednesday.

The bill also prohibits use of a drug to make an animal appear sounder than it actually is.

Sponsors said the bill is designed to correct abuses by some exhibitors.

Loan Interest Rate Boosts Win Approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Small loan companies will be able to make bigger loans and charge more for them under the terms of a bill passed Wednesday by the House.

The bill, passed 87-8, raises the interest rate for loans above $500 and allows loans of up to $3,000 for periods up to four years.

Under present law, the loans are limited to $2,000 for three years.

Sponsors said the small loan rate has not been changed since 1961, despite tighter money and higher operating costs.

They said the consumer loan business was ceasing to be profitable, driving reputable firms from the field and leaving the consumers to loan sharks.

"Will there be a reasonable consumer loan industry in Ohio, or will there be a return to the loan shark?" asked Rep. Frank H. Mayfield, R-65 Cincinnati. "Those are the alternatives."

Under present law, annual interest rates are set at 16 per cent for loans up to $500, nine per cent between $500 and $1,000 and seven per cent between $1,000 and $2,000.

Under the proposed law, the 16 per cent interest rate will apply to the first $750, with amounts between $750 and $1,500 carrying an 11 per cent interest rate and amounts between $1,500 and $3,000 a nine per cent rate.

Pen Guard Dismissals Being Heard

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The personnel Board of Review expects to take three weeks to complete hearings that result from the firing of 151 workers at three state penal institutions in May.

The hearings began Tuesday at Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville. They will move next week to Marion Correctional Institution and then to Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

Dismissed employees at those institutions, mainly guards, were fired after a "no contract" walkout in May. Sixty-six were dismissed at Lucasville, 60 at Marion and 25 at Chillicothe.

The three-member board has set aside three days for each of the facilities.

A ruling on the dismissals is not expected until after all the hearings are complete.

In a 2-1 vote last month, the board ruled workers participating in the walkout could be fired for absences of one or two days if they were proved to be "of sufficient seriousness."

Work Program Shows Success

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A year-old experiment designed to make generally tedious work more satisfying has helped break down traditional barriers between the City of Springfield and its public employees, the city manager says.

"My purpose is to get people to treat each other like human beings," City Manager Alfred P. Strodzdas said of the "Quality of Work" project under way among some 400 blue collar and clerical employees.

"It has gotten supervisors, cast in the role of ogres, to realize that the guy they are supervising has the same sort of aches and pains as their own."

The project is the brainchild of the Ohio Quality of Work Institute, a branch of the nonprofit Ohio Development Center, created under former Gov. John J. Gilligan in 1972. The center was designed to try to stem the loss of jobs and industry in Ohio.

The Springfield project is an effort to give workers more mobility through rotation of job duties while opening up channels of communications with superiors.

The institute, which helped bring the city and labor together to launch the program last Aug. 9, has 13 other work quality projects on the drawing board. One other experiment is already under way at an unidentified industry in Cleveland, project coordinator John Brandt reported.

Brandt concurs with Strodzdas on the early success of the Springfield project, which is being developed by a 10-member labor-management committee of decisionmakers.

House Approves Animal Drug Ban

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill prohibiting the use of drugs on animals scheduled to compete at county fairs or exhibitions was approved 93-0 by the House Wednesday.

The bill also prohibits use of a drug to make an animal appear sounder than it actually is.

Sponsors said the bill is designed to correct abuses by some exhibitors.

The committee initiated a training program aimed at job rotation in the sanitation department, which afforded workers the opportunity to perform higher-paid jobs on a voluntary basis.

The panel, which attempts to steer clear of collective bargaining and grievance situations, currently is gathering information on a labor relations survey in the parks department.

Brandt credits "improvements in attitudes and morale, basically to opening new channels of communications."

As an example he cited a recent labor-management "feedback session" in the parks department.

"The next day one of the foremen radically altered his managerial style," said Brandt. "He went in and had a work group meeting, saying, 'Here is what we have to do. What is the best way we can accomplish the task?'"

"I'm very excited about the program," said Strodzdas. "There have been enough obvious pluses to warrant serious consideration to making the program a continuing part of the public sector of the city of 85,000 when the experiment expires in early 1978, Strodzdas said.

"This thing was a last resort, really," said Strodzdas. "This adversary relationship (between labor and management) is great and it's necessary, but at certain points you have to reach an understanding."

Travel Chief Eases Off Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Paul Sherlock is an authority on two things — how to attract tourists and how to travel in the middle of the political road.

The combination has kept him around Ohio state government for 30 years under six different governors, Democrat and Republican.

Director emeritus of the Ohio Bureau of Travel and Tourism, the 69-year-old Sherlock is a tall, friendly man with an unwrinkled face. He uses the same kindly tone of voice when speaking the names of his six gubernatorial bosses.

"Every one of those governors personally asked me to stay on," Sherlock said. "I like all I ever worked for."

With each new administration, he took his middle-of-the-road stance.

"I was straight with them," he said. "I told them I don't play the game. You can't call me a Democrat or a Republican."

A few challenges have come up, but the problem seemed to end when he nonchalantly offered to quit.

A state publicity commission hired Sherlock in 1945. Ohio didn't have a lot to brag about then.

"Cedar Point was a duck blind," Sherlock recalled with a smile. "We had the Serpent Mounds, of course, and Lake Hope had 14 cabins. But, not many people realized then what travel means to the economy."

Sherlock became one member of the four-man team that first handled Ohio's travel promotion and development. Now it is the 350-employee Department of Economic and Community Development.

"The whole department depends on him for answers to their questions," said James Duerk, department director.

Duerk said Sherlock, well known in the country's travel industry, has been particularly helpful because of his personal interest in Ohio's many festivals.

Sherlock gained emeritus status two years ago when Joanne McCrea was named bureau director. Sherlock said he expects to phase his work out this year, but not until after this season's festivals.

Sherlock said with some pride, is its park system. Even the Sherlocks have difficulty getting reservations at park lodges sometimes.

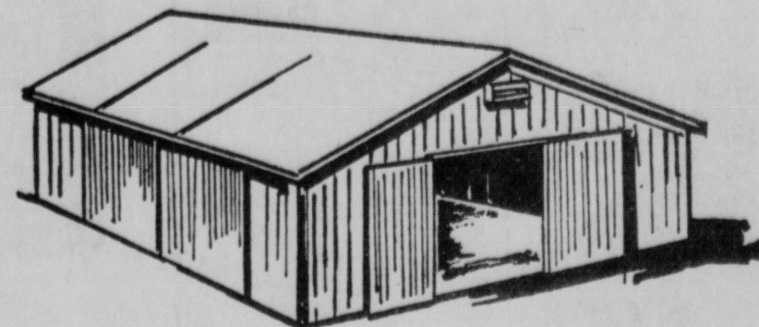

The state's location is another big advantage. "It's the most accessible state you'll find," Sherlock said.

Ohio, he pointed out, serves as a 200-mile corridor for much of the nation's east-west traffic. The highway system is good and Ohio is close to Canada. After retirement the Sherlocks probably will step outside the state, at least long enough to see the only continent they haven't visited — Australia.

Closer to home there's some good fishing to be done over at the Greenlawn Dam. Sherlock calls it "some of the best in the state."

Kenley Players Present Jones, Harrison In Musical 'She Loves Me'

Jack Jones, Anita Gillette and Noel Harrison are the stars of the romantic musical, "She Loves Me", opening a week's engagement at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, in the Kenley Players production at Columbus' Veterans Memorial.

JACK JONES

Based on the Continental play by Miklos Laszlo and the film, "The Shop Around the Corner", the Kenley production tells of a boy and a girl, both employed in a perfume shop, who battle in person but who conduct a warm pen-pal romance via the postoffice.

The untangling of their true feelings and unveiling of their true identities provide the focal point for the story. A second romance is carried on by

Taft, Glenn Blast Probe Of Ohioans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committee was sent a protest Wednesday from both Ohio senators after committee investigators attempted to intimidate Sandusky, Ohio, business leaders.

Sens. Robert Taft Jr., a Republican, and John Glenn, Taft's Democratic colleague, said "we want to get to the bottom of this."

W. Donald Gray and Craig Cartwright, investigators for the committee, arrived in Sandusky after a June 12 ad in the Sandusky Register expressing support for legislation to deregulate natural gas, Taft said.

Ten business leaders claimed in the ad that deregulation was necessary to save up to 8,000 jobs in the Sandusky area.

Taft told the Senate that he could not imagine any legitimate reason for the Senate to investigate ads run in newspapers merely because they expressed an opinion contrary to that of the Commerce Committee.

"The plain effect is to threaten free expression of opinion by private citizens on national issues of the deepest significance," he said.

Taft referred to it as a "legislative version of the plumbers' operation of the Watergate days."

Glenn said that while he would not use as harsh language, "we can't have people going around indicating we have our citizens under some kind of surveillance because their actions are not in harmony with ours."

Antioch Coed Also A Fire Chief

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP) — Rachel Levin might end up with a doctorate in neuro sciences or clinical psychology. She might become a physician.

Right now she's a fire chief. Miss Levin has been the fire chief of Antioch College's volunteer student fire department for more than two months.

The fourth-year psychology and biology major is the first woman to hold the post at Antioch, and one of the few women anywhere to run a fire department.

"Some cities won't let women become firefighters if they don't meet the height and weight requirements," said the 5-7, 115-pounder, "but you don't have to be a Mr. America type to be a good firefighter."

"Firefighting is not a brawny thing. Sure, it takes some strength on the part of the firefighter, but it also takes empathy and sensitivity, too. Above all there's a lot of common sense involved."

Miss Levin, 21, of Evanston, Ill., was elected to the post by the other members of Antioch's volunteer unit. Of the 25 members, 10 are women.

"She's a good chief," said Peter Siegel, a sophomore. "I know I feel confident with her."

Fifteen volunteers, including the chief, live in Maples, a dormitory next to the fire station.

"With all of us living in a community as we do, Rachel's responsibilities as fire chief are much more than just putting out fires," said Dick Cunningham, a fourth-year volunteer. "She's not only a fire chief, but a personnel manager, a resident oracle and part-time counselor."

Antioch's firefighters work closely with the Yellow Springs Fire Department. "We're the backup to the town department, but we respond initially to their alarms," said Fire Chief Levin.

She said she is ultimately responsible for anything that occurs at a fire, and also is responsible for balancing Maples' $10,000 annual budget, the maintenance of equipment, the four-hour volunteer training sessions on Saturday afternoons, and attending weekly meetings with officers of the town department.

She is paid $25 a week.

A quarter pressure relief valve had to be replaced recently on the fire engine. "I didn't even know what a pressure relief valve was before we needed one," she said, "but I made sure it was done."

Miss Levin, who said she wanted to be a firefighter since she was four, began as a firstaid volunteer. She did that for about nine months before training as a firefighter.

She had hoped to ease into her new responsibilities when she took over as fire chief April 1. "I thought maybe there'd be a few small fires, and then maybe we'd work up to something bigger," she said.

But, the first few weeks there were nine house fires, or just about as many as there usually are in one quarter, she said.

Miss Levin doesn't think she'll ever become a permanent fire chief. Her days as a fire chief will be over this month, or in October if she isn't accepted for a British research program. "But, if I ever settle down in a small

Jack Jones, Anita Gillette and Noel Harrison are the stars of the romantic musical, "She Loves Me", opening a week's engagement at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, in the Kenley Players production at Columbus Veterans Memorial.

JACK JONES

Based on the Continental play by Miklos Laszlo and the film, "The Shop Around the Corner", the Kenley production tells of a boy and a girl, both employed in a perfume shop, who battle in person but who conduct a warm pen-pal romance via the postoffice.

The untangling of their true feelings and unveiling of their true identities provide the focal point for the story. A second romance is carried on by

Taft, Glenn Blast Probe Of Ohioans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committee was sent a protest Wednesday from both Ohio senators after committee investigators attempted to intimidate Sandusky, Ohio, business leaders.

Sens. Robert Taft Jr., a Republican, and John Glenn, Taft's Democratic colleague, said "we want to get to the bottom of this."

W. Donald Gray and Craig Cartwright, investigators for the committee, arrived in Sandusky after a June 12 ad in the Sandusky Register expressing support for legislation to deregulate natural gas, Taft said.

Ten business leaders claimed in the ad that deregulation was necessary to save up to 8,000 jobs in the Sandusky area.

Taft told the Senate that he could not imagine any legitimate reason for the Senate to investigate ads run in newspapers merely because they expressed an opinion contrary to that of the Commerce Committee.

"The plain effect is to threaten free expression of opinion by private citizens on national issues of the deepest significance," he said.

Taft referred to it as a "legislative version of the plumbers' operation of the Watergate days."

Glenn said that while he would not use as harsh language, "we can't have people going around indicating we have our citizens under some kind of surveillance because their actions are not in harmony with ours."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The solar home at the Ohio State Fair will again be open to the public during the 12 days of the fair, Aug. 21-Sept. 1, Manager John F. Evans said.

The solar home was built last summer as a joint project of the Department of Mechanical Engineering at Ohio State University and the Homewood Corp. of Columbus and more than 40 other organizations.

There will be a 25-cent admission charge for tours. The home is located north of 17th Ave., across the midway from the Lausche Building.

Antioch Coed Also A Fire Chief

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP) — Rachel Levin might end up with a doctorate in neuro sciences or clinical psychology. She might become a physician.

Right now she's a fire chief. Miss Levin has been the fire chief of Antioch College's volunteer student fire department for more than two months.

The fourth-year psychology and biology major is the first woman to hold the post at Antioch, and one of the few women anywhere to run a fire department.

"Some cities won't let women become firefighters if they don't meet the height and weight requirements," said the 5-7, 115-pounder, "but you don't have to be a Mr. America type to be a good firefighter."

"Firefighting is not a brawny thing. Sure, it takes some strength on the part of the firefighter, but it also takes empathy and sensitivity, too. Above all there's a lot of common sense involved."

Miss Levin, 21, of Evanston, Ill., was elected to the post by the other members of Antioch's volunteer unit. Of the 25 members, 10 are women.

"She's a good chief," said Peter Siegel, a sophomore. "I know I feel confident with her."

Fifteen volunteers, including the chief, live in Maples, a dormitory next to the fire station.

"With all of us living in a community as we do, Rachel's responsibilities as fire chief are much more than just putting out fires," said Dick Cunningham, a fourth-year volunteer. "She's not only a fire chief, but a personnel manager, a resident oracle and part-time counselor."

Antioch's firefighters work closely with the Yellow Springs Fire Department. "We're the backup to the town department, but we respond initially to their alarms," said Fire Chief Levin.

She said she is ultimately responsible for anything that occurs at a fire, and also is responsible for balancing Maples' $10,000 annual budget, the maintenance of equipment, the four-hour volunteer training sessions on Saturday afternoons, and attending weekly meetings with officers of the town department. She is paid $25 a week.

A quarter pressure relief valve had to be replaced recently on the fire engine. "I didn't even know what a pressure relief valve was before we needed one," she said, "but I made sure it was done."

Miss Levin, who said she wanted to be a firefighter since she was four, began as a firstaid volunteer. She did that for about nine months before training as a firefighter.

She had hoped to ease into her new responsibilities when she took over as fire chief April 1. "I thought maybe there'd be a few small fires, and then maybe we'd work up to something bigger," she said.

But, the first few weeks there were nine house fires, or just about as many as there usually are in one quarter, she said.

Miss Levin doesn't think she'll ever become a permanent fire chief. Her days as a fire chief will be over this month, or in October if she isn't accepted for a British research program.

"But, if I ever settle down in a small

EDITORS NOTE — The following article was prepared by the Ohio Historical Society to promote the theme, "Get Away Into Ohio's Yesterday ... Today." A second series of articles exploring day trips and mini vacations around the state of both historical and recreational interest will be appearing in The Herald. Both historical and recreational interest will be appearing in The Herald.

Muskingham and Perry Counties cover a lot of real estate. Their once flourishing ceramic industries, historic national landmarks and scenic rolling hills provide enough sightseeing for a whole week's vacation.

But with only a day or weekend to spend, head for Zanesville and the Roseville-Crooksville area for some interesting sidetrips and a sampling of the beautiful countryside this area has to offer.

Summer days in the southwestern section of Ohio are hot and lazy ones. So, begin early in the day and head for State Route 93, south of Zanesville and Crooksville for some cool-of-the-morning browsing at what used to be the greatest pottery and ceramic center of the state. The Ohio Ceramic Center, situated atop a wooded hillside affording a panoramic view of the picturesque countryside, consists of five buildings, clustered around a central courtyard.

The courtyard, itself, is composed of an interesting montage of clay pipes and tile blocks, reflecting the contemporary design of the building as well as the major purpose of the museum—the display of Ohio pottery and ceramics. On carefree, summer days, the walls are pulled back, uniting the separate and detached exhibit buildings into one huge display area.

Three of the display buildings are dedicated to the contributions of the pottery and ceramic industry that once existed in this area. Early redware and stoneware, imported ceramics, early Ohio mass-produced pottery and industrial ceramic products are cleverly and effectively displayed in such appropriate exhibit cases as water pipe connectors, clay conduits and tiles, never letting you forget the more practical uses of this important material.

The fourth building houses a unique demonstration area, where professional potters work raw clay into the type of earthenware for which this area is famous. Surrounded by shelves of drying pottery, an unfinished cup resting haphazardly on a pedestal, and mounds of clay waiting its moment of glory on the potter's wheel, the atmosphere is one of a busy and industrial factory, rather than a museum. It's a place to watch the craftsmen at work, and listen to the explanation of the techniques they use. Then, you're invited to sit down at one of the three potter's wheels and literally sink your hands in the exhibit in the watchful and encouraging eye of the potters.

The last building is an information desk and gift shop where many of the items seen being made in the demonstration area can be purchased.

The Ohio Ceramic Center is open Wednesday through Sunday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is only $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

To make the most of this interesting attraction, go the weekend of July 18-20, when the two towns of Roseville and Crooksville combine efforts for a pottery festival that defies comparison. Free tours of potteries, sales of ceramic wares at incredible savings, rides, parades, music and drama will serve as a festive background for your trip through the Center. It's an interesting and educational weekend for the entire family.

Then, for a completely different experience, head northeast to the Norwich exit of Interstate 70 where, situated on the side of old Route 40, the first permanent land link from Ohio to the east, stands the National Road-Zane Grey Museum. This unique structure displays, in contemporary style, the historic wagons, carriages, early bicycles and antique autos that once traveled the National Road. Off to one side are several re-creations of what life on, and along the Road might have looked like a century ago. The millwright's shop and the blacksmith's shop indicate the type of industry that flourished as a result of the National Road; the tavern common room shows the type of accommodations the traveler might have stayed in en route to his destination; and in the center of the complex, displayed in the open courtyard is a scene of a pioneer camping site, complete with a Conestoga wagon that actually traveled the Road at one time.

On the wall, surrounding the entire exhibit area, is the history of the National Road in miniature. Here, through 136 feet of model figures and buildings, you can trace the growth and development of the Road from its starting point in Cumberland, Maryland to its end in Vandalia, Illinois. Scenes, which range from the actual construction of the Road, to the introduction of toll gates, to modern, paved roads with automobiles, are all represented in minute detail. From the 1920's gas pump, which lists fuel as costing only a dime, right down to the rugged brick floor, resembling the Road in its earlier years, the National Road Museum captures the fascinating history of not only the Road, but the early life style and transportation Ohio has seen for the last hundred years.

The museum is actually two exhibits in one. Adjacent to the National Road display, housed within the same building, is a small area devoted to the "Father of the Adult Western," Zane Grey. Readers and sports enthusiasts will enjoy the displays of original manuscripts, first editions of his popular novels, and personal sports equipment, all attractively displayed behind large glass wall-cases surrounded by colorful posters of Hollywood movies that were made from his books. It's a fascinating exhibit on a fascinating man. The National Road-Zane Grey Museum is open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 1 to 5 p.m.

Both Muskingham and Perry Counties offer excellent camping facilities with scenic views and lush surroundings. In addition to Blue Rock State Park, containing nearly 5000 acres of hill country, there's Dillon State Park on S.R. 146, north of Zanesville and Muskingum River Parkway. Located along the Muskingum River, Dillon offers year around recreation for urbanites weary of buzzing phones and screeching sirens. Small park areas have been established at the dams and locks along the River, and there's always plenty of rest areas along the highway that offer clean grounds for picnics, or just a spot to relax on the way back home.

Ohio State Fair Has Solar Home

Ohio State Fair General Manager John F. Evans has announced that the Homewood Corporation-Ohio State University Solar Home again will be open to the public during all 12 days of the '75 State Fair, Aug. 21 through Labor Day, Sept. 1.

Evans noted that the Solar Home is located north of 17th Ave., across the midway from the Lausche Bldg.

The Solar Home was built last summer as a joint project of the Ohio State University Department of Mechanical Engineering, Homewood Corporation of Columbus, and more than 40 private, participating organizations.

Homewood Corp. Vice-President William A. Goldman said his company, which donated general contracting services during construction, again would take financial responsibility for all costs incurred above those covered by the nominal 25 cents admission charge.

"The admission fee," Goldman said, "is used exclusively to help defray expenses directly connected with the preparation and maintenance of the Home as an exhibit. These include the preparation of printed information for visitors, interior repainting as necessary, costs of printing signage and posters, and other similar items."

During the 1974 State Fair, more than 70,000 persons toured the Home. A special exhibit area in the garage comprised schematic drawings; photos and a slide-audio presentation to explain the solar energy theories used to provide heating and air conditioning and to provide heat for the domestic water supply.

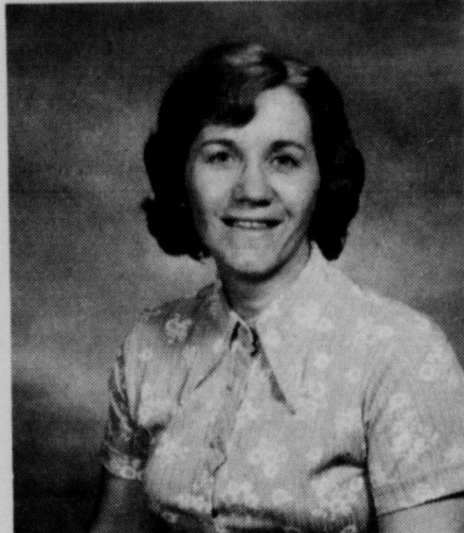

More than 2 million persons are expected to visit the 1975 Ohio State Fair.

Officials Eye Space Shots

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and his American counterpart in Moscow will share firsts when the U.S. Apollo spacecraft and Russia's Soyuz blast off Tuesday on a joint space mission.

Dobrynin and his wife will fly here that day as guests of Dr. James Fletcher of the U.S. space agency, and the Soviet ambassador will become the first Russian government official to view an American space launch.

In the Soviet Union, the Russian liftoff at the vast Baikonur Cosmodrome in central Russia will be witnessed by U.S. Ambassador Walter Stoessel and his wife.

Stoessel will become the first American government officer to visit the Soviet Union's secret launch site, 1,400 miles southeast of Moscow.

Stoessel and his wife were invited to Baikonur by the Soviet government and will fly there from Moscow in a Soviet aircraft for a one-day visit, the U.S. Embassy in Moscow said.

So far as is known, the only other Western government officials known to have visited Baikonur were the late French Presidents Charles de Gaulle and Georges Pompidou, although U.S. space officials, astronauts and technicians have been to the facility.

Reds Sweep Past Phils, 9-7

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I was the victim of overthinking," muttered Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark. "There ain't no way we can lose this thing now," crowed Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson. "We can only give it away."

"I'm glad to get out of here," said Greg Luzinski.

The Reds staged their 27th comeback from behind victory of the season Wednesday night, scoring five runs in the eighth inning for a three-game sweep of the Phils.

The 9-7 victory gave Cincinnati its widest bulge of the year over Los Angeles, the team that one year ago held the same comfortable margin over the Reds. The Dodgers lost to Pittsburgh.

"The players ain't worried about LA anymore. They're just going out there and playing baseball. To them, LA doesn't exist," said Anderson.

The Reds are also behaving like opposing pitchers don't exist.

Trailing 5-4 in the eighth, Johnny Bench greeted the first pitch of reliever Gene Garber by drilling it for his 18th homer of the year.

Then came the deluge. Moments earlier, Ozark had yanked Tom Hilgendorf off the mound in order to have Garber, now 7-5, face Bench. Hilgendorf was working on a string of 21 2-3 scoreless innings when he gave way.

Bench, who had hit two homers off Garber the last time he faced him, said he winced when Ozark made the move. "I just don't like hitting against him—Garber. I don't like hitting against anyone who comes sidearm. In fact, I don't think there is a hitter who does," said Bench.

It was the Reds sixth straight victory, ninth in the last 10 games and 15th in 17 outings.

"Those guys are waltzing," said Luzinski, the Phils strongman who belted his 23rd homer to extend his league lead over Bench.

"The way they are going they'll have it wrapped up next month," he said.

Cincinnati struck first, taking a 3-0 lead as Tony Perez keyed a fourth inning outburst off Jim Lonborg.

The Phils retaliated with a five-run sixth when Jay Johnstone cracked a two-run double and Luzinski sent Jack Billingham to the showers with a two-run homer.

Dave Concepcion, struggling in a 4-for-30 slump, brought Cincinnati to within a run, with a bunt single off Ron Schueler that caught even Anderson by surprise.

"Last time I faced him he threw me three sidearm curves and I didn't make contact on any of them. He threw me one pitch tonight and I knew I had no chance. So I bunted," said Concepcion, who later drove in the go-ahead run with a single.

Anderson detected a new attitude among the Reds. "The way we've been playing, there's a new confidence that's developed. We're never down when we're behind. It used to be when we'd get behind there would be a little muttering, not loud, about the pitcher letting the other team get ahead. That has all stopped. There's never any criticism of the pitcher. They just get ready to score runs."

The victory went to Pedro Borbon, 5-1.

The Reds take a day off today, while the Phils face their Toledo farm team.

Sore Seaver Tops Atlanta

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer
Baseballs slipped out of Tom Seaver's hand. His shoulder hurt. And he couldn't get his curve ball over. He had all kinds of problems pitching to the Atlanta Braves.

And the Braves had all kinds of problems hitting him.

Even when he's troubled, the New York Mets' finest pitcher is hard to beat and he proved it Wednesday night with a classy, 2-1 decision over Atlanta in 10 innings.

"He's been pitching great all year," said Rusty Staub, who hit the game-winning homer in the 10th. "If we had gotten him a few runs in some other games, he'd have even more victories than he has."

Seaver's 13th victory of the season was gained despite some frustration

Graig Nettles Wins Berth With Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — A lastminute burst of support by Yankee fans has given dark horse Graig Nettles the starting spot at third base in the American League lineup for the 1975 All-Star Game.

Nettles, ranked fourth a week ago, attracted a total of 1,181,583 votes to outdistance runnerup Sal Bando of Oakland and last week's leader, Buddy Bell of Cleveland, according to the voting results released Thursday by the baseball commissioners office.

The Yankee infielder, an All-Star rookie, also was one of three New York players to gain a starting position in the 46th annual event, and one of five players who found themselves top vote-getters for the first time.

New York's Thurman Munson was the runaway favorite for catcher with 2,068,535 votes, a margin of 1,093,372 over Oakland's Ray Fosse, and teammate Bobby Bonds took top honors in the outfield. Other newcomers to the leading lineup were outfielder Joe Rudi and first baseman Gene Tenace of Oakland.

Tenace, who like Nettles will be playing in the game for the first time, edged Mike Hargrove of Texas 1,241,377 votes to 1,220,904.

The five will be joined by outfielder Reggie Jackson and shortstop Bert Campaneris of Oakland, and Rod Carew of Minnesota, the league's No. 1 vote-getter in 1975 with 3,165,614. Carew and the National League's Johnny Bench are the only players to be elected as starters in all six years of fan voting.

Hobby Shop Bops Shaw's Towing

Roundtown Hobby Shop downed Shaw's Towing, 11-2, in slow pitch action at Ted Lewis Park Wednesday.

Jim Ramey hurled the win with Bob Strawser picking up the loss.

Summer Promise Wins At Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Summer Promise turned in the fast time of the meeting for a 3-year-old filly Wednesday night by holding off a stretch drive challenge in the featured trot.

The winner completed the distance in 2:01 4-5 and won by a length and a half.

The victory returned $8.80, $6.00 and $4.00. Little Starbuck finished second and paid $7.60 and $4.40. Surtax was the show horse at $5.60.

Rick Jones Leads Amateur Tourney

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Veteran Rick Jones of Youngstown, a perennial also-ran in the Ohio Men's Amateur golf tournament, oozed confidence Wednesday after taking a three-stroke lead in this year's event.

"I've only missed four greens and three fairways over the past two days," the 41-year-old Jones said. "If I shoot par from here on in, I think I can win this."

Women's Amateur Contest Continues

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Three former state champions fell Wednesday, but defending titlist Sandra Jones of Cincinnati and Mrs. Don Peppard of Canton led the way into the quarterfinals of the 52nd Ohio Women's Amateur golf tournament.

Miss Jones, 37, eliminated Mrs. Frederick Mosher, also of Cincinnati, 2-and-1 in match play at Toledo Country Club. Earlier this year, Mrs. Mosher scored a 1-up victory over Miss Jones for the Cincinnati Women's Amateur title.

Bengals To Open Wilmington Camp

CINCINNATI (AP) — One of the Cincinnati Bengals' largest rookie crops ever begins vying with 43 veterans Sunday when the National Football League club opens training camp at Wilmington, Ohio.

The 22 rookies, headed by No. 1 draft choice Glenn Cameron, a University of Florida linebacker, join the veterans Sunday for physical examinations and distribution of equipment.

"We're anxious to get started," said Paul Brown, head coach and general manager of the NFL's last expansion team. "We have to accomplish a lot in a relatively short time since we start our preseason Aug. 2 against Washington."

The Bengals, 7-7 last year, will have three weeks of drills before meeting the Redskins in the annual Hall of Fame Game at Canton, Ohio.

On-field practice gets under way on Monday.

Brown, who is entering his 22nd professional season, reacts to the annual influx of new talent like a youngster anticipating Christmas.

"It's like coming downstairs Christmas morning and seeing all those presents under the tree," Brown said at a news conference Wednesday. "You can hardly wait to open them up to see what you've gotten."

Besides sorting through the new arrivals for standout prospects, Brown's chief concern is whether several veterans have fully recovered from injuries.

Last year, after winning four of their first five games, the Bengals were hard-hit with a string of injuries. The backfield was decimated and the offensive line was riddled with key injuries to center Bob Johnson and Vern Holland.

Middle linebacker Jim LeClair and running back Essex Johnson underwent off-season surgery.

"We're going to need Holland healthy and we would have been a different team if LeClair had been able to play last year," said Brown.

The early retirement of All-Pro defensive tackle Mike Reid is expected to create a scramble for the spot. Second-year man Bill Kollar is expected to have the edge after filling in for Reid on occasion last year.

The quarterback situation will be an interesting scrap too, with newly-acquired John Reaves facing challenges from Penn State's Tom Shuman and Brigham Young University's Gary Scheide.

Pat Sullivan of Livingston, N.J., will captain Army's hockey team next season.

British Open Lead Goes To Oosterhuis

BRITISH OPEN BEGINS—Peter Oosterhuis, of Great Britain, lines up a putt on the 7th green at Carnoustie, Scotland, in the first round of the British Open.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Carnoustie's 7,065-yard, par-72 championship course is a "sleeping giant," according to Hale Irwin, the 1974 U.S. Open champion.

And anyone hoping to win the British Open title, and the $16,500 that goes with it, must be praying the giant doesn't wake up.

Peter Oosterhuis, the tall British favorite, tamed Carnoustie Wednesday with a four-under-par 68 to gain the lead in the field of 153. But Jack Nicklaus, the hot favorite, also tamed this famed course, and stands just one stroke back going into today's second round.

Tied with Nicklaus were Irwin, Australians Jack Newton and Bob Shearer, and South Africans Andries

George Foster Showing Potential

CINCINNATI (AP) — Until this season, George Foster was one of those baseball characters who lingered in the shadow of the big leagues. His picture was on the bubble gum card, lending some kind of fame to the man, but somehow success had always eluded him.

As a San Francisco Giant, he was an outfielder on a team that featured Willie Mays and Bobby Bonds. That left him nowhere to go but Cincinnati. In 1971, that's just where he went.

The Reds took one look and gave out with superlatives. Baseballs literally jumped off his bat. He ran with the swiftness of a deer. He threw with strength.

They called him a future superstar. So, in 1971, he struck out 120 times. In 1972, he hit .200. In 1973, he found himself back at Indianapolis.

It was there, George Foster believes, that God reached out a helping hand to him. He had always believed, but admits "maybe not as strong a belief as I now have. I've matured since then, mentally, physically, emotionally, and spiritually."

As a baseball player, with all Foster's ability, he had one fault. When a baseball didn't travel in a straight line from pitcher to catcher, he couldn't hit it. Two knocks in the head had helped develop a fear. If he was to return to the big leagues, to reach what had been predicted for him, he would have to rid himself of fear.

He went to a hypnotist. Your modern, liberal American would say the hypnotist was the answer. George Foster disagrees. To him, it was God who provided the answer.

"It was a religious experience," he relates. "God works through other people. If you need His help, He'll give it to you. By believing in the hypnotist, I was believing in God."

In late September, 1973, George Foster returned to the Reds and hit .282. Last year, used sparingly, he hit .264. This year, as Foster says, "is my year."

He has blossomed into a potent power hitter, owning 15 home runs. Most of them have been hit with a tremendous velocity.

Lester Flatt Faces Surgery

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Bluegrass guitarist Lester Flatt undergoes open heart surgery today, unaware of the funeral of fellow Grand Ole Opry star George Morgan.

Morgan, 50, died Monday of complications resulting from open heart surgery last Wednesday. His funeral was scheduled to be held in Nashville today.

Officials at St. Thomas Hospital said Flatt, 61, is being kept from newspapers, radio and television so he won't learn of Morgan's death.

Angels Squeak By Orioles

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

It was poetic justice.

First, Brooks Robinson took advantage of a third-strike wild pitch that would have ended the eighth inning and delivered a two-run single to put the Baltimore Orioles in front of the California Angels 2-1 Wednesday night.

But in the bottom of the eighth, the brilliant Robinson, winner of 15 consecutive Gold Glove awards as the American League's premier fielding third baseman, made a wild throw — only his second error all season — and the Angels promptly rebounded for a 3-2 victory on Dave Collins' two-run pinch triple.

Elsewhere, the Boston Red Sox wiped out a six-run deficit and edged the Minnesota Twins 9-8, the Texas

A's Defeat Cleveland; Win Tilt 3-1

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A little less than two months ago, Manager Frank Robinson of the Cleveland Indians decided he had some pitchers he didn't need. One was Dick Bosman.

Bosman made Robinson regret his decision for the third time Wednesday afternoon when he pitched the Oakland A's to a 3-1 victory over the Indians at Oakland Coliseum.

"I didn't think he looked that good, even when he beat us," Robinson said.

Since coming to the A's, Bosman has compiled a 6-1 record. He needed relief help from Paul Lindblad and Rolie Fingers to beat the Indians Wednesday.

Manager Alvin Dark of the A's said Bosman did exactly what he was supposed to do.

"We want him to go five or six innings and keep us in the game," Dark said. Bosman gave up only two hits before leaving the game with one out in the sixth inning.

Lindblad took over and held the Indians hitless until the ninth inning when he gave up the first run he has allowed in 33 2-3 innings going back to May 31. He left the game with runners on second and third and Bill Sudakis coming to bat.

Dark called in Fingers to pitch to Sudakis who struck out on four pitches. The angry Sudakis flipped his bat in the air after taking a called third strike that ended the game.

Afterward Sudakis was asked if he thought the pitch was a strike. "The umpire said it was a strike, so it must have been," he said angrily.

Jeff Brown of the Air Force Academy has led the Falcon baseball team in hitting the past three years. His mark for three springs is .389.

Rangers blanked the New York Yankees 4-0, the Milwaukee Brewers downed the Kansas City Royals 6-4, the Oakland A's beat the Cleveland Indians 3-1 and the Detroit Tigers won their eighth straight, beating the Chicago White Sox 6-2.

The Red Sox boosted their lead in the East Division to two games over New York and Milwaukee and six over Baltimore while Oakland has a seven-game bulge over Kansas City in the AL West.

Robinson's error to start the Angels' eighth was followed by a sacrifice. Doyle Alexander replaced Ross Grimsley with a 2-0 count on Winston Llenas and completed the walk to pinch hitter Joe Lahoud. Collins was then called upon to pinch hit for the first time in his 3½-year pro career and delivered his big triple.

Red Sox 9, Twins 8

Jim Rice's two-out double in the bottom of the ninth inning scored Doug Griffin with the winning run. Boston had tied the game earlier in the ninth on Cecil Cooper's pinch homer. Then Griffin delivered a pinch single and scored all the way from first on Rice's hit.

Brewers 6, Royals 4

Don Money hammered two solo home runs and Bobby Darwin hit one for the Brewers. Money led off the game with his fourth homer of the season and hit No. 5 in the fifth Darwin's 10th homer triggered a four-run uprising against Nelson Briles in the second.

Rangers 4, Yankees 0

Ferguson Jenkins pitched a four-hitter for his first shutout of the season and Jim Sundberg belted a three-run homer. Tom Grieve doubled home the Rangers' first run in the opening inning and Sundberg cracked his sixth home run in the sixth.

A's 3, Indians 1

Dick Bosman, Paul Lindblad and Rolie Fingers combined to pitch a five-hitter for Oakland. Bosman, who started the season with the Indians, gave up two hits, both in the fourth. Cleveland didn't score until the ninth.

The A's got two runs off Eric Raich in the first on a walk, singles by Claudell Washington and Reggie Jackson and Joe Rudi's double.

Tigers 6, White Sox 2

Bill Freehan hit a three-run homer and Jack Pierce drove in Detroit's other three runs with a single and a grounder. Ray Bare scattered eight hits, including Brian Downing's two-run homer, the first runs off Tiger pitching in 21 innings.

Manager Alvin Dark of the A's said Bosman did exactly what he was supposed to do.

"We want him to go five or six innings and keep us in the game," Dark said. Bosman gave up only two hits before leaving the game with one out in the sixth inning.

Lindblad took over and held the Indians hitless until the ninth inning when he gave up the first run he has allowed in 33 2-3 innings going back to May 31. He left the game with runners on second and third and Bill Sudakis coming to bat.

Dark called in Fingers to pitch to Sudakis who struck out on four pitches. The angry Sudakis flipped his bat in the air after taking a called third strike that ended the game.

Afterward Sudakis was asked if he thought the pitch was a strike. "The umpire said it was a strike, so it must have been," he said angrily.

Jeff Brown of the Air Force Academy has led the Falcon baseball team in hitting the past three years. His mark for three springs is .389.

Rangers blanked the New York Yankees 4-0, the Milwaukee Brewers downed the Kansas City Royals 6-4, the Oakland A's beat the Cleveland Indians 3-1 and the Detroit Tigers won their eighth straight, beating the Chicago White Sox 6-2.

The Red Sox boosted their lead in the East Division to two games over New York and Milwaukee and six over Baltimore while Oakland has a seven-game bulge over Kansas City in the AL West.

Robinson's error to start the Angels' eighth was followed by a sacrifice. Doyle Alexander replaced Ross Grimsley with a 2-0 count on Winston Llenas and completed the walk to pinch hitter Joe Lahoud. Collins was then called upon to pinch hit for the first time in his 3½-year pro career and delivered his big triple.

Red Sox 9, Twins 8

Jim Rice's two-out double in the bottom of the ninth inning scored Doug Griffin with the winning run. Boston had tied the game earlier in the ninth on Cecil Cooper's pinch homer. Then Griffin delivered a pinch single and scored all the way from first on Rice's hit.

Brewers 6, Royals 4

Don Money hammered two solo home runs and Bobby Darwin hit one for the Brewers. Money led off the game with his fourth homer of the season and hit No. 5 in the fifth Darwin's 10th homer triggered a four-run uprising against Nelson Briles in the second.

Rangers 4, Yankees 0

Ferguson Jenkins pitched a four-hitter for his first shutout of the season and Jim Sundberg belted a three-run homer. Tom Grieve doubled home the Rangers' first run in the opening inning and Sundberg cracked his sixth home run in the sixth.

A's 3, Indians 1

Dick Bosman, Paul Lindblad and Rollie Fingers combined to pitch a five-hitter for Oakland. Bosman, who

Baton, Drum And Drill Corps Gets New Colors, Becomes Blue Lancers

The Blue Lancers Baton, Drill and Drum Corps, formerly known as The Perfectionettes, under the direction of Elaine Lloyd, have participated in numerous area parades and were presented awards from each festival they have attended.

Co-director of the corps is Janet Wright.

Since inception of the new name, the corps changed outfit style and is now sporting new colors of turquoise with white trim.

Parades where the Corps has marched include, Adelphi Bologna Festival, Circleville Memorial Day Parade, Big Ben Regatta Festival in Pomeroy, Kingston Geranium Festival, McArthur-Vinton County Festival where they received the first place trophy and the Ashville Fourth of July Festival.

The Corps sponsored a National Baton Twirlers Association Contest June 28 at the McDowell Exchange School with 75 girls participating.

Girls participating in the contest represented Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois.

The future schedule of the Blue Lancers includes the Grove City Fair, Laurelville Firemen's Festival, Reynoldsburg Tomato Festival, Coshocton, Canal Fulton Canal Days, Canal Winchester, Millersport Sweet Corn Festival, Portsmouth River Days, Lebanon, Williamsport, Ohio State Fair, Pottery Festival, Nelsonville Parade of the Hills, Pumpkin Show, Bainbridge, Chillicothe Halloween Parade, and Jackson.

New Strains Hurt Irish Cease-Fire

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — New strains were put on the Irish Republican Army's five-month-old cease-fire in Northern Ireland because of the capture in the Irish Republic of guerrilla chieftain David O'Connell.

O'Connell, a 38-year-old teacher turned terrorist, was seized Wednesday in a Dublin suburb after years of evading the authorities on both sides of the border, police reported. He was the commander of the IRA's Provisional wing, the chief Roman Catholic army in Northern Ireland and the authors of the cease-fire.

A police spokesman said O'Connell was taken without a struggle and lodged in Bridgeway Jail for questioning.

O'Connell, long the Provisionals' top strategist, is thought to favor political ways of achieving the IRA's goal of a united Ireland. It is believed he pushed through the cease-fire over opposition from diehard guerrillas who want to continue the campaign of terror.

His successor as the Provos' commander will be Seamus Twomey, the guerrilla group's former-commander in Belfast who favors bullet-and-bomb tactics, informed sources said. The IRA rescued Twomey by helicopter from Dublin's Mountjoy Prison in 1973.

O'Connell was captured shortly after the Provos exploded three bombs in a government office block in the heart of Londonderry. The British army said there was no warning, but no one was hurt.

Bulls Run; Man Killed

PAMPLONA, Spain (AP) — The fourth day or the annual running of the bulls in Pamplona went off without mishap today after eight bulls gored a Spaniard to death Wednesday and injured scores of others including three Americans.

More than 1,000 runners, all of them men, stayed well ahead of the eight bulls along the 900-yard route from the bull pens to the bull ring. There was no repetition of the pileup of runners at the entrance to the arena which caused the tragedy Wednesday, and the bulls moved easily into the ring's chutes after the 2½-minute run.

Doctors at the infirmary said it was one of the quietest runnings in recent years. They said nobody turned up for treatment.

Celeste Blasts Fund Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state welfare department proposal for use of newly available social security funds would exclude thousands of elderly and low income Ohioans, Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste has charged.

The Democratic lieutenant governor said Wednesday the Public Welfare Department's plan would not utilize $70 million of $125 million available to the state under the Title 20 amendment to the federal Social Security Act.

He called the state proposal "an outrageous slap in the face to hundreds of thousands of Ohioans, working families, unemployed, elderly and young people — and to all who are taxpayers."

The Title 20 plan, which must be submitted to federal officials by mid-August, is supposed to outline a "comprehensive social service" program to assist needy Ohioans in gaining self-sufficiency.

Richard F. McKenna, director of public welfare, said the department "fully intended" to use the entire $125 million, but has not yet determined how all of the money should be spent. He acknowledged that the draft plan called for spending only $55 million.

The state would have to provide $42 million from state and local sources to attract the full amount of federal funds.

Celeste said the current state plan would exclude elderly citizens with annual incomes over $3,000 and average size families of four with incomes over $5,500 from a variety of services.

"After six months of effort," he said, "the welfare department has developed a 'plan' which slams the doors to necessary social services on literally hundreds of thousands of Ohioans."

Celeste was joined at a news conference by Rep. David Hartley, D-60 Springfield, who accused the state of failing to seek input from the public in preparing the federally-mandated plan.

"It (the state) has deliberately cut off any real citizen input by disguising the description of the state plan in an incomprehensible advertisement that looks like it was written to advertise bids for a sewer line, not invite public comment on social services," he said.

Hartley said the state's newspaper ad did not include a tollfree telephone number for information, nor an address indicating where a copy of the 15-page plan could be obtained. Hartley said he had been unable to obtain a copy.

McKenna said the department had received 3,000 of 5,000 questionnaires sent to interested parties throughout the state, asking for comment on the proposal.

He said the annual income limits for the elderly and families could be raised after the state agency "is assured" it can fulfill a federal requirement that 50 per cent of the available funds must go to regular welfare payments.

McKenna described the plan as a working document meant to "stimulate comments" like Celeste's and Hartley's, and subject to revision.

New Strains Hurt Irish Cease-Fire

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — New strains were put on the Irish Republican Army's five-month-old cease-fire in Northern Ireland because of the capture in the Irish Republic of guerrilla chieftain David O'Connell.

O'Connell, a 38-year-old teacher turned terrorist, was seized Wednesday in a Dublin suburb after years of evading the authorities on both sides of the border, police reported. He was the commander of the IRA's Provisional wing, the chief Roman Catholic army in Northern Ireland and the authors of the cease-fire.

A police spokesman said O'Connell was taken without a struggle and lodged in Bridgeway Jail for questioning.

O'Connell, long the Provisionals' top strategist, is thought to favor political ways of achieving the IRA's goal of a united Ireland. It is believed he pushed through the cease-fire over opposition from diehard guerrillas who want to continue the campaign of terror.

His successor as the Provos' commander will be Seamus Twomey, the guerrilla group's former-commander in Belfast who favors bullet-and-bomb tactics, informed sources said. The IRA rescued Twomey by helicopter from Dublin's Mountjoy Prison in 1973.

O'Connell was captured shortly after the Provos exploded three bombs in a government office block in the heart of Londonderry. The British army said there was no warning, but no one was hurt.

Bulls Run; Man Killed

PAMPLONA, Spain (AP) — The fourth day of the annual running of the bulls in Pamplona went off without mishap today after eight bulls gored a Spaniard to death Wednesday and injured scores of others including three Americans.

More than 1,000 runners, all of them men, stayed well ahead of the eight bulls along the 900-yard route from the bull pens to the bull ring. There was no repetition of the pileup of runners at the entrance to the arena which caused the tragedy Wednesday, and the bulls moved easily into the ring's chutes after the 2½-minute run.

Doctors at the infirmary said it was one of the quietest runnings in recent years. They said nobody turned up for treatment.

Celeste Blasts Fund Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state welfare department proposal for use of newly available social security funds would exclude thousands of elderly and low income Ohioans, Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste has charged.

The Democratic lieutenant governor said Wednesday the Public Welfare Department's plan would not utilize $70 million of $125 million available to the state under the Title 20 amendment to the federal Social Security Act.

He called the state proposal "an outrageous slap in the face to hundreds of thousands of Ohioans, working families, unemployed, elderly and young people — and to all who are taxpayers."

The Title 20 plan, which must be submitted to federal officials by mid-August, is supposed to outline a "comprehensive social service" program to assist needy Ohioans in gaining self-sufficiency.

Richard F. McKenna, director of public welfare, said the department "fully intended" to use the entire $125 million, but has not yet determined how all of the money should be spent. He acknowledged that the draft plan called for spending only $55 million.

The state would have to provide $42 million from state and local sources to attract the full amount of federal funds.

Celeste said the current state plan would exclude elderly citizens with annual incomes over $3,000 and average size families of four with incomes over $5,500 from a variety of services.

"After six months of effort," he said, "the welfare department has developed a 'plan' which slams the doors to necessary social services on literally hundreds of thousands of Ohioans."

Celeste was joined at a news conference by Rep. David Hartley, D-60 Springfield, who accused the state of failing to seek input from the public in preparing the federally-mandated plan.

"It (the state) has deliberately cut off any real citizen input by disguising the description of the state plan in an incomprehensible advertisement that looks like it was written to advertise bids for a sewer line, not invite public comment on social services," he said.

Hartley said the state's newspaper ad did not include a tollfree telephone number for information, nor an address indicating where a copy of the 15-page plan could be obtained. Hartley said he had been unable to obtain a copy.

McKenna said the department had received 3,000 of 5,000 questionnaires sent to interested parties throughout the state, asking for comment on the proposal.

He said the annual income limits for the elderly and families could be raised after the state agency "is assured" it can fulfill a federal requirement that 50 per cent of the available funds must go to regular welfare payments.

McKenna described the plan as a working document meant to "stimulate comments" like Celeste's and Hartley's, and subject to revision.

9-Day Marriage Ending For Cher?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Gregg and I made a mistake," entertainer Cher said in announcing that she was seeking a divorce after nine days of marriage to rock musician Gregg Allman.

"I've always believed it best to admit one's mistakes as quickly as possible," she said late Wednesday. "We just cannot live together as man and wife."

A spokesman for Cher said the couple had been separated since last Friday, and Cher had left for an undisclosed location.

Cher said, "I am trying to make my own decisions now after years of having had them made for me. I am bound to make wrong ones from time to time and this was one of those times."

But after filing for divorce from Allman, 29-year-old Cherilyn LaPiere Bono Allman reportedly was not sure her latest decision was the right one either.

Less than two weeks ago, Cher had shed her first husband, long-time singing partner Sonny Bono.

A spokesman for Allman said the latest divorce action was all a misunderstanding. He claimed Cher had already reconsidered, and he said he thought she might not go through with the divorce.

"The papers have been filed but the litigation will not go through," said Mike Hyland of Allman's recording company, Capricorn Records. There were also reports, later withdrawn, that Cher was unaware of the divorce action.

Later, Hyland said, "I think they had a misunderstanding. I think they got things straightened out, but I really have no way of knowing. I know they were on the phone this afternoon."

He said Allman was "pretty much surprised" by Cher's divorce petition, which cited "irreconcilable differences."

Hyland said it was possible the couple would get together over the weekend in Georgia, home of the Allman Brothers Band, or Los Angeles.

Allman, 27, was in Macon, Ga., recording an album.

Cher, a long-haired beauty with one of the most frequently photographed navels in the history of American television, and Allman were married June 30 in Las Vegas in a small ceremony in the Caesars Palace suite of Cher's lawyer, Milton Rudin.

She had been divorced from Bono for only three days.

"I have my own feelings about divorce," Cher had said after her split with Bono. "So many people get divorced today. I think you shouldn't regard it as a failure. Just a change."

Press Strike Battled

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A decision was expected today in the latest legal attempt by the Pittsburgh Press Co. to halt a two-week-old strike by its truck drivers.

At the end of a hearing Wednesday on the company's request for a permanent injunction, U.S. District Court Judge Barron McCune said he would read the transcripts and probably decide today whether to issue a back-to-work order.

Both the evening Press and editorially separate morning Post-Gazette, which printed in the Press plant, have been idled since June 27 when nearly 700 members of the Teamsters Local 211 walked out. The papers' combined circulation on weekdays is about 500,000.

At issue is the reassignment of one man who works on the newsprint receiving dock. The company planned to move him to another position on two nights a week because there was no work.

YOU BORN TODAY ARE endowed with great practicality, a remarkable memory and unusual foresight. Your business acumen is outstanding and you could make a great success in commercial fields but, as a career, may prefer one of the arts, at which you also excel. Along these lines, music or architecture would be your best bets but, since you are inclined to be somewhat materialistic, you may not find either of these fields lucrative enough to suit you. In such case, you may well take up either as a hobby. Unlike most Cancerians, you love the limelight and will do almost anything in the interest of self-exploitation. Try to curb this tendency, since it could lead you to undesirable extremes. Birthdate of: John Quincy Adams, 6th Pres., U.S.A.; John Wanamaker, merchant; Yul Brynner, actor.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — If TV, you're gifted with viewing endurance, catch "The Chicago Conspiracy Trial" on public TV tonight. It lasts 2½ hours, should have been cut to 90 minutes, but still is worth watching.

It's a dramatization of the controversial trial of Abbie Hoffman and seven other radicals opposed to the Vietnam war who were charged with conspiring to incite a riot at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Co-produced by the British Broadcasting Corp. and TimeLife Television, its script is based entirely on verbatim excerpts taken from the 23,000-page trial transcript, public TV officials say.

Narrated by a British announcer and acted by American thespians, it starts with opening pleadings before Julius Hoffman, the crusty federal court judge whose conduct of the 20-week trial was heavily criticized by leading liberal figures after the verdict came in.

Then the program cuts to film clips of the antiwar demonstrations and violence surrounding the 1968 convention to set the stage for the ensuing fireworks and impassioned speeches in court.

The proceedings — including the much-publicized binding and gagging of defendant Bobby Seale, head of the Black Panthers — are amply illustrated in the show's selection of various trial phases, phases which occasionally include some obscenities rarely heard on Alas, the dramatization at times gets bogged down in long-winded minor moments of the trial and one starts wishing the re-creation hadn't been so thorough.

But the feeling of reality is strong, both because the actors in the principal roles bear uncanny resemblances to the actual trial participants and because the acting is uncommonly good.

The standouts: James Patterson as the chief defense lawyer, William Kunstler; Morris Carnovsky as Judge Hoffman; Al Freeman Jr. as Seale and Cliff Gorman as Abbie Hoffman.

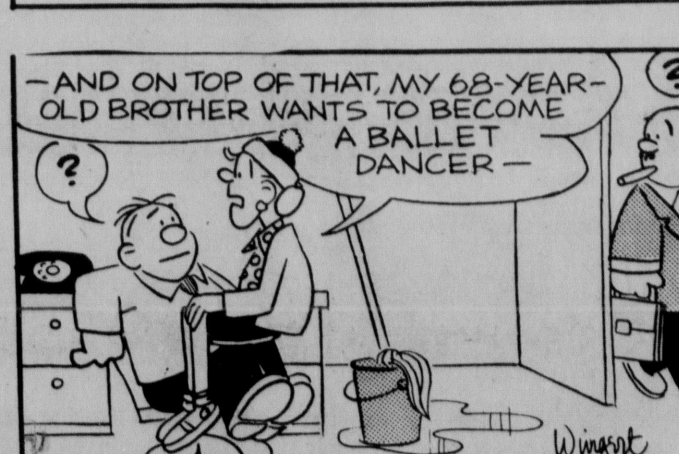

Airless Spray Has Pressure

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Consumers have been warned by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission that high pressure airless paint spray guns may be hazardous under certain conditions.

The commission said the hazard may arise if the user's hand, finger or other parts of the body come in close contact with the jet spray of paint. Because the paint in airless spray guns is ejected with a great deal of pressure and velocity, the user's skin could be penetrated, injecting paint into the underlying tissues.

The resulting injury to the skin and tissue may cause permanent damage or require surgical amputation.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

From fairy tales to "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory," books with a good story often have a touch of fantasy.

The Grimm brothers, two sons from a very happy family, worked amiably for years putting stories on paper, previously only told aloud. Many of their entertaining tales like Rumpelstiltskin and Snow White will never die.

Hans Christian Anderson led a pleasant but very sheltered childhood. Even at age 11 he could be found in his favorite spot by the river telling stories. Often touched with sadness, his tales of the common people and barnyard animals are familiar in many countries and retain their popularity today. The "Ugly Duckling" and "The Wild Swans" are available with large colored pictures.

A newly illustrated copy of "Tom Thumb" will have immense appeal for older pre-schoolers. With adventure on all sides, tiny Tom nearly meets his end inside the wolf's stomach. Miraculously he escapes only to fall prey to trouble again and again to the delight of the audience.

A modern British author, Ian Fleming, has created a magical car,

Astronauts Get Exams By Medics

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space agency doctors examine three American astronauts today to certify their readiness to fly a joint mission with two Russian cosmonauts next week.

The exams, scheduled to last several hours, have a dual purpose: to make sure the astronauts are physically fit and to gather baseline medical data for inflight and postflight comparison.

The tests are being conducted at the Johnson Space Center, Houston, Tex., where astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton are undergoing final training for the flight.

The astronauts will fly to Cape Canaveral on Sunday to be lodged in special crew quarters near the launch area where a 22-story tall Saturn rocket is being groomed to hoist them into space at 3:50 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

That is 7½ hours after Soviet cosmonauts Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov are to lift off in a Soyuz spacecraft from Baikonur Cosmodrome in central Russia, 1,400 miles southeast of Moscow.

After two days of maneuvering, Apollo and Soyuz will dock 140 miles above West Germany at 12:15 p.m. Thursday.

They'll remain hooked together for two days, during which time the spacemen will exchange visits between the ships, conduct joint experiments and share meals.

"Chitty-Chitty Bang Bang." What child wouldn't like to get out from under his parents' control, push a magic button and fly away?

Mary Poppins doesn't fly but she certainly knows magic. And by the light of the moon this very special nursemaid spirits the Banks children to zoos where the animals run free and their caretakers are imprisoned.

The Wilson children do fly, with the aid of Miss Price and her witchcraft. They leave home regularly at the twist of the knob of a big brass bed in "Bedknob and Broomstick." Not only do they visit the marvelous city of London, they even travel backward in time!

Current fantasy is full of gadgetry and fabulous machines whose dials resemble the control panels seen at Cape Canaveral. Henry's doctor uses such a machine in his office and diagnoses Henry's illness as "Chocolate Fever." Henry panics, runs away with a truck driver and finds late night travel on the highway more unpredictable than chocolate fever.

In a similar vein is "Miss Pickerell on the Moon." Miss Pickerell lives when interspace travel is common. But she has an uncommon mission to bring back a cure for a raging animal epidemic on earth.

Coalcon Plant Wins Guarantee

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — The proposed Coalcon hydrocarbonization plant would be assured of 46,000 tons of coal daily for 20 years if located in Monongalia County, a county development spokesman said Wednesday.

Monongalia County Development Authority Chairman Burkey Lilly said about 30 independent coal operators agreed Wednesday to supply Coalcon.

Coalcon requires a minimum of 20,000 tons of coal daily for 20 years to operate the coal hydrocarbonization plant, Lilly said.

The companies also pledged 107,000 acres of additional land bearing 42 million tons of recoverable coal to the proposed Coalcon project.

"We have demonstrated we have the coal, water, transportation, labor and other supplemental services to put Coalcon together," Lilly said. "We are convinced they can operate and make a profit in West Virginia."

West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Illinois have made presentations to Coalcon officials in hopes of winning the billion dollar project. In addition to Monongalia County, West Virginia has recommended sites in Tyler, Mason and Jackson counties.

ATTEND WORKSHOP—Four members of the Circleville High School Tigerettes attended the Buckeye Beginners Workshop, June 28-July 3 at Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware. They were commended for their spirit and precision and received the fourth place trophy in competition out of 20 teams. Attending the workshop, from the left, were, seated, Karen Holycross, sophomore, daughter of Mrs. Jean Holycross and Susan Doering; sophomore; daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Doering; standing; Terri Strawser, sophomore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Strawser and Thea Rogers, junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Rogers.

Month-Long Fight Victorious In Battle With Bubonic Plague

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "You've never seen anything more frightening in your life. I mean, his whole body was black. He was as sick as any human could be and still live."

Dr. James Favata reflected on the month-long struggle to save 23-year-old Ralph Fulp from bubonic plague, an ordeal Favata described as a "nightmare for everyone."

He said Fulp, of Chino Valley in north central Arizona, will live but will lose parts of most fingers and some toes.

Of seven plague cases confirmed nationwide this year, the Arizona Health Department says five occurred in Arizona, most on the Navajo Indian Reservation in northern Arizona. All have been nonfatal.

The disease is usually transmitted by fleas.

In an interview on Wednesday, Favata recalled the morning of June 14 when Fulp struggled into his office.

"I told his mother then that if he had been on the reservation or in that area, I would say he had the plague," Favata said. "But the idea seemed so outlandish. The plague was something I read about in medical textbooks 15 years ago. I never in my wildest dreams thought I would be treating it. The case was a nightmare — for him, for his parents, for me, for everyone."

Hospital tests confirmed Fulp had the plague.

"By Sunday, he started to fail rapidly and went into severe shock," the doctor said. "He became extremely short of breath and his blood pressure fell to nothing."

Favata said that at one point Fulp's temperature was so high it wouldn't register on an electronic thermometer.

"By Monday, he was black from the tip of his head to the tip of his toes," Favata said. "I've treated a lot of people, but I've never seen anybody as sick as he was. By Monday, the odds of him dying were good."

In those first few days, the problem was not how to treat the plague, but how to keep Fulp alive until antibiotics took effect, Favata said. He said it was two weeks later before he "felt pretty comfortable" that Fulp would live.

State Health Department officials have been trying without success to track down where Fulp contracted the plague and that extensive trapping of rodents near Chino Valley has failed to produce clues.

According to medical journals, the last U.S. outbreak of the plague occurred in Los Angeles in 1924-25. Thirty-three persons contracted the disease, 31 died. Last May, a 17-year-old girl died of the plague in an area north of Los Angeles.

Convention Plans May Be Altered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic and Republican national committees may have to take a second look at potential sites for their national conventions because of a ruling from the Federal Election Commission.

The commission ruled Wednesday that the national political conventions can't accept free services from private industry beyond what those corporations would be willing to offer any other gathering. According to that ruling, the free automobiles and buses and the free beer and soft drinks always in plentiful supply at past presidential nominating conventions will be missing in 1976.

The two national chairmen, Mary Louise Smith of the Republicans and Robert S. Strauss of the Democrats, were not available for comment on the ruling.

The commission ruled that the parties could accept free services from state and municipal governments although it specifically warned against using them as conduits for corporate donations.

The ruling could influence whether the Democrats choose to hold their convention in New York City or Los Angeles. Madison Square Garden in New York is privately owned and thus could not be offered rent-free to the Democrats. The convention hall in Los Angeles is publicly owned and could be offered rent-free.

Under the commission ruling, the City of New York could rent Madison Square Garden, paying the normal rate, and then offer to let the Democrats use it for free. But somebody, either the city or the Democrats, would have to pay for use of the hall.

All five cities under consideration by the Republicans have publicly owned halls. They are Los Angeles, Miami Beach, Cleveland, New Orleans and San Francisco.

In another ruling the commission said that loans to pay the cost of an upcoming Democratic fund raising telethon are contributions subject to the Campaign Reform Act of 1974, which imposes a $25,000 ceiling on the amount that any individual can contribute in one year.

Air time for the telethon scheduled for July 26 and 27 is estimated to cost $1.5 million which must be paid in advance. The commission ruling would prohibit the Democrats from raising that money with a few large loans which then would be repaid from the telethon proceeds.

In anticipation of an unfavorable ruling the Democrats have been raising money in smaller chunks and now have collected nearly $800,000.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

From fairy tales to "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory," books with a good story often have a touch of fantasy.

The Grimm brothers, two sons from a very happy family, worked amiably for years putting stories on paper, previously only told aloud. Many of their entertaining tales like Rumpelstiltskin and Snow White will never die.

Hans Christian Anderson led a pleasant but very sheltered childhood. Even at age 11 he could be found in his favorite spot by the river telling stories. Often touched with sadness, his tales of the common people and barnyard animals are familiar in many countries and retain their popularity today. The "Ugly Duckling" and "The Wild Swans" are available with large colored pictures.

A newly illustrated copy of "Tom Thumb" will have immense appeal for older pre-schoolers. With adventure on all sides, tiny Tom nearly meets his end inside the wolf's stomach. Miraculously he escapes only to fall prey to trouble again and again to the delight of the audience.

A modern British author, Ian Fleming, has created a magical car,

Astronauts Get Exams By Medics

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space agency doctors examine three American astronauts today to certify their readiness to fly a joint mission with two Russian cosmonauts next week.

The exams, scheduled to last several hours, have a dual purpose: to make sure the astronauts are physically fit and to gather baseline medical data for inflight and postflight comparison.

The tests are being conducted at the Johnson Space Center, Houston, Tex., where astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton are undergoing final training for the flight.

The astronauts will fly to Cape Canaveral on Sunday to be lodged in special crew quarters near the launch area where a 22-story tall Saturn rocket is being groomed to hoist them into space at 3:50 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

That is 7½ hours after Soviet cosmonauts Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov are to lift off in a Soyuz spacecraft from Baikonur Cosmodrome in central Russia, 1,400 miles southeast of Moscow.

After two days of maneuvering, Apollo and Soyuz will dock 140 miles above West Germany at 12:15 p.m. Thursday.

They'll remain hooked together for two days, during which time the spacemen will exchange visits between the ships, conduct joint experiments and share meals.
